Firms are cited for pollution

By BARBARA GOFFMAN
ANP Special Writer

Two Romulus companies are in hot water with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for improper fluid handling.

CIW Company, a closed oil-reclamation firm, has been fined $90,000 for selling 36,000 gallons of waste oil containing PCBs, in concentrations greater than the allowed 50 parts-per-million, in the spring of 1989.

It also has been cited for improperly disposing 5,800 gallons of PCB-contaminated waste oil and sludge, spilling PCB-tainted oil and water into the containment areas surrounding oil storage tanks and failing to mark 12 bulk-storage tanks of PCB-contaminated oil with the proper label.

The second company, K&D Industrial Services Inc., was fined $13,000 for transporting the PCB-tainted fluid to CIW Company.

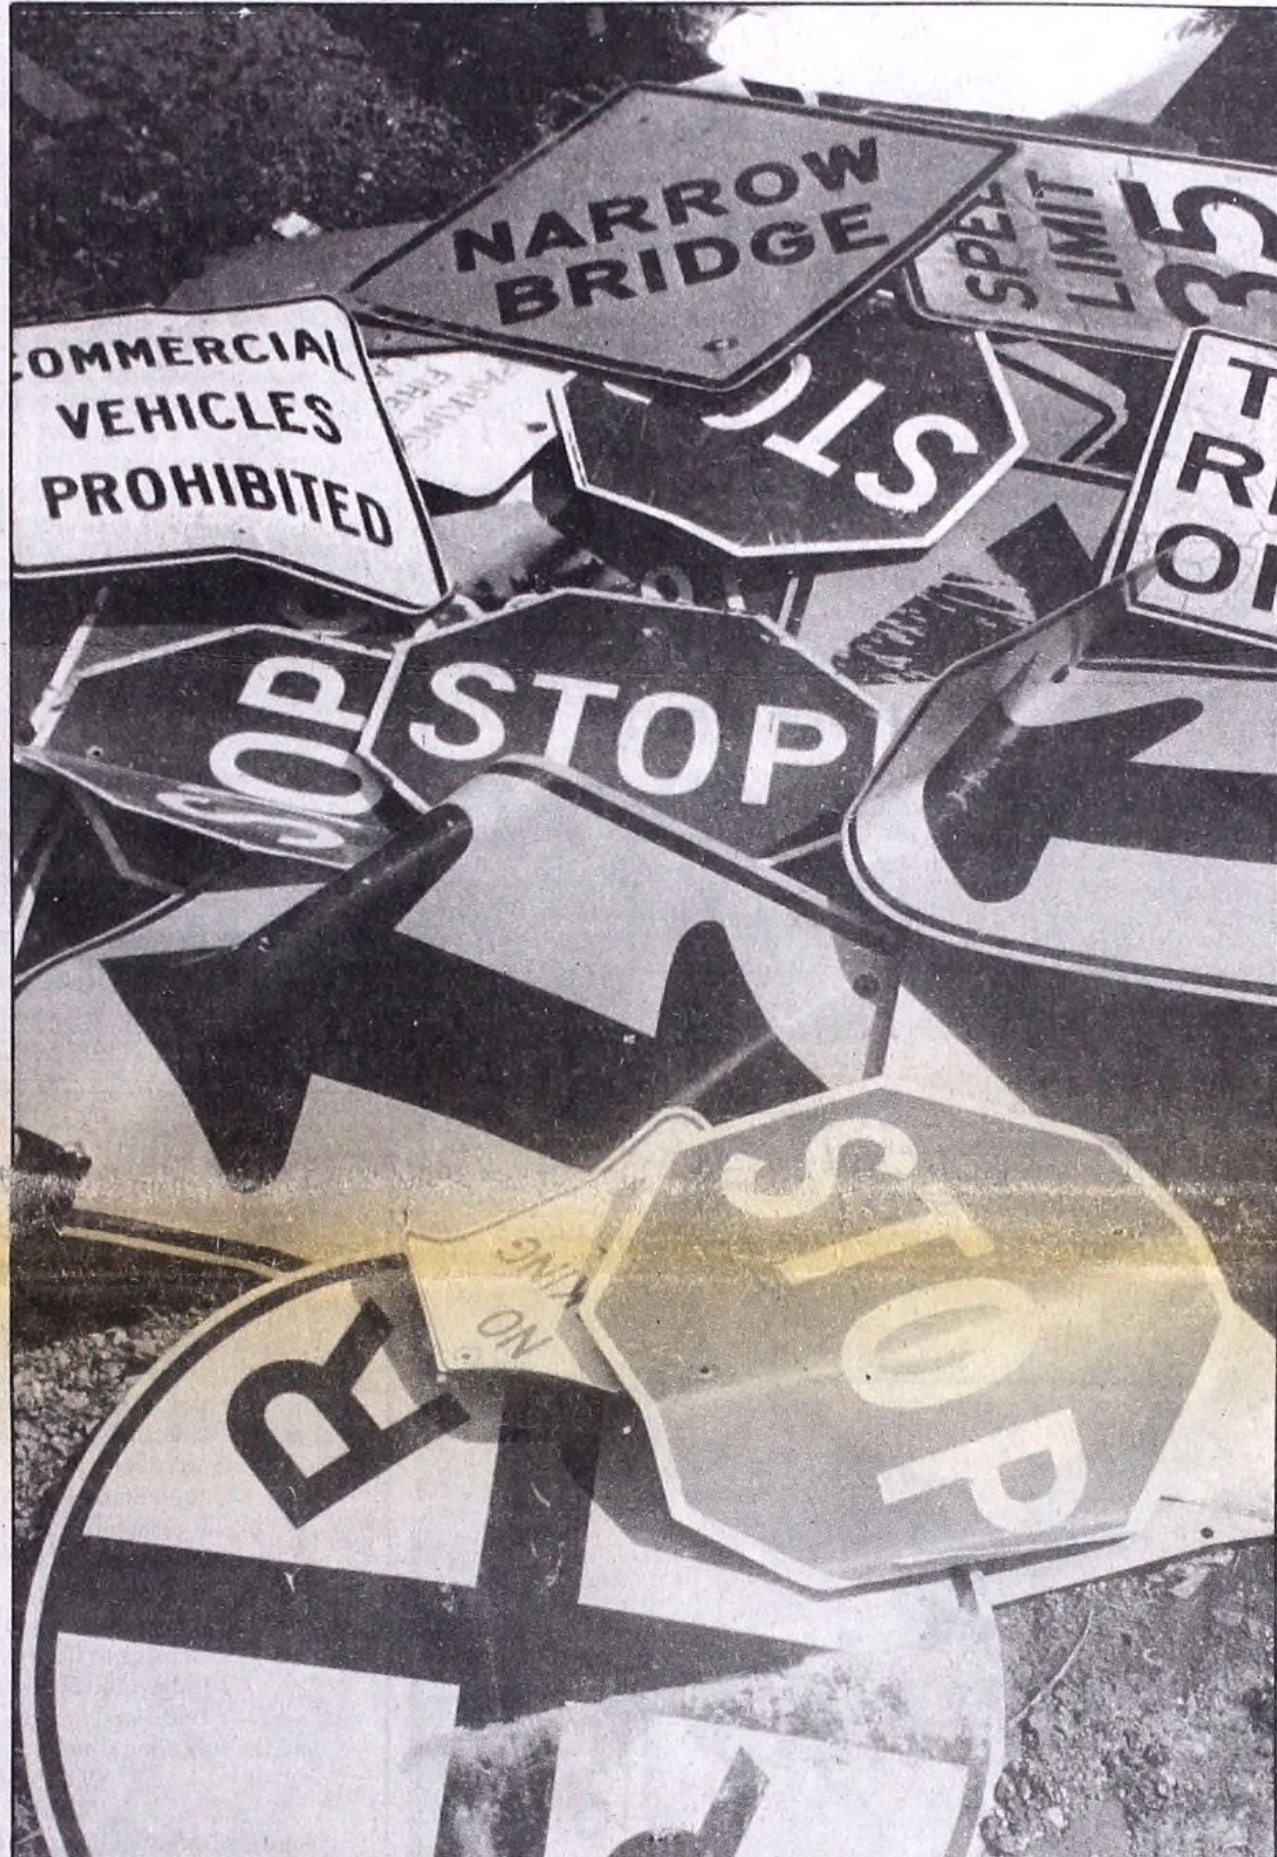

The two companies are part of six Midwest companies fined by the EPA for improper fluid handling.

"All companies must comply with federal regulations pertaining to the disposal of fluids containing PCBs," EPA spokesperson William H. Sanders said. "This is to ensure the public will not be exposed to a potential health threat."

The public is not in any danger despite the violations, said EPA Consultant Nancy Sullivan.

K&D attorney James Fausone called the company, his client, a victim because it was unaware the fluid it was contracted to transport was PCB-tainted. He has requested a formal hearing with the EPA to settle the matter.

It is being called the worst vandalism spree of its kind in memory.

In all, vandals either stole, pulled out of the ground or bent 14 posts and seven signs on or around July 14 in the Wyndelife subdivision, according to Romulus Deputy Chief Leonard Rukkila.

Cost to repair the damage is $815, Rukkila said.

"I can't remember a time when we had this many damaged signs at one time," he said. "Some of them were pretty beat up."

Police discovered the damage after complaints from residents in the area. It took two days for workers with the Department of Public Works to restore all the signs and posts.

"I've never seen anything like this in 18 years on the job," said Glenn Free, DPW supervisor in charge of sign repairs. "There are pranks near Halloween where someone might turn a stop sign backwards, but never have I seen this many signs mutilated at one time. Somebody just tore them up."

Damaged signs included one fire lane, one no parking any time, two street and three no parking. Some of the bashed signs sported motorcycle tire tracks, Free said.

"What likely happened was somebody took a motorcycle and ran it up the posts," he said. "It was probably somebody with nothing better to do."

No suspects are in custody, and police do not have any leads in the case, Rukkila said. He added police do not have any clues why vandals attacked the signs in the subdivision or why it happened when it did.

"I imagine it was some kids driving around looking for fun," he said. "Kids like to do these kinds of things."

The police department has not had any problems in the past with sign-bashing, and does not expect any trouble in the future, Rukkila said.

Arrests made in assault, robbery

By BARBARA GOFFMAN
ANP Special Writer

Two local men were bound over to Circuit Court last week and charged with breaking and entering, robbery and assault.

Terry Johnson, 28, of Romulus, and Frank Russell, 32, of Inkster, will be arraigned Aug. 1 at the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice.

They are each being held on a $25,000 cash bond for the alleged July 12 robbery of two elderly women in their Romulus home on Wayne Road.

The two men allegedly kicked in the front door of the home at 1:30 a.m., took money from the women and struck them.

One of the women called police while the men were looking through the house.

Police arrested Russell as he was leaving the home. Johnson was arrested in the basement of the house.

Midair plane collision claims 3 lives

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Staff Writer

Officials from the Federal Aviation Administration continued Tuesday to pluck through the wreckage of two airplanes which collided in mid-air Monday over Plymouth Township.

Two airplanes, a single-engine-propeller Cherokee 140 and a twin-engine Piper Aerostar, collided at 9:15 a.m. Monday approximately 2,500 feet above Beck and Ridge roads just south of M-14, killing the three pilots.

The deceased are Charles Nix, 45, of Detroit, Robert Gunn, 65, of Livonia, who both were flying in a single-engine Cherokee 140, and Richard Starr, 34, who piloted the twin-engine Aerostar for Federal Armored Services, according to authorities.

The single-engine plane, which left Mettetal Airport in Canton Township at approximately 8:45 a.m. on a training exercise was flying northwest, according to officials at Mettetal Airport.

The twin-engine plane was flying west to Jackson to deliver cancelled checks when it reportedly overtook the smaller plane, according to FAA operations supervisor Larry McCartney.

The single-engine plane was flying approximately 90 mph and the twin-engine plane was flying at twice the speed of the other plane, McCartney said.

"We believe that Mr. Nix was on a training flight to prepare him for his instrument-flight rating," he said.

"It's a very unusual accident — almost like someone being struck by lightning," Thomas Kennedy, a commercial pilot at the scene, said.

The fixed base operator at Mettetal Airport, Ashley Heimbaugh, called it "a strange accident."

"Nix and Gunn were both well-qualified pilots," Heimbaugh said.

Nix, an experienced pilot, was in the process of upgrading his license. Gunn served as his flight instructor, according to Heimbaugh.

The bodies of the two men in the single-engine plane were found away from the wreckage, and the body of the man piloting the twin-engine plane was found amidst the wreckage of his aircraft.

A voice recorder was aboard the twin-engine plane, but not in the single-engine plane, according to reports.

The precise cause of the crash has not been determined.

At approximately 9:30 a.m., 21-year-old Todd Miller sleeping in his upstairs bedroom in his parents' home on North Territorial, approximately a half-mile from the wreckage of both planes, was awakened by a "boom" as a duffel bag containing cancelled checks crashed through the roof into the attic of the house.

"I woke up immediately when the 'boom' shook the upstairs. I noticed debris on the south side of the house — thousands of cancelled checks scattered," Miller said.

Men from a City Packaging Services van, an overnight courier, picked up the cancelled checks near the house.

Mettetal Airport is privately owned, although officials with Canton Township are considering the township purchase of the facility.

Local man faces a charge of murder

By BARBARA GOFFMAN
ANP Special Writer

A 28-year-old Westland man was bound over to circuit court last Wednesday, where he will stand trial for the second-degree murder of Lisa Gayle Pierce, 34, of Westland.

Michael McGee, who will face a circuit court hearing Aug. 1 at the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice, is being held on $500,000 bond for the July 3 shooting death of Pierce in a Van Buren Township mobile home.

Detective Michael Moening of the Van Buren Police Department testified that McGee made a statement to police, saying the couple had been lightly drinking for nearly nine hours, although neither was intoxicated, when an argument erupted at 11 p.m.

McGee said after Pierce told him she wanted to kill herself, he brought out an unloaded Smith and Wesson .38-S&W for a game of Russian Roulette, according to Moening.

Moening said McGee confessed to police he placed a bullet in the chamber of the gun after Pierce complained that the gun was unloaded. McGee claimed he spun the chamber so the bullet rested on the bottom of the barrel, whereby neither party would get hurt by a gun firing.

Pierce, however, advanced the chamber before telling McGee to place the gun into her mouth, McGee said in his statement.

McGee claimed he did not know that, nor did he think to check if the chamber in which the bullet lay was then at the top of the gun. McGee said he pulled the trigger after Pierce closed her mouth around the pistol, firing the fatal shot, Moening testified.

McGee said he then left the home to find his boss, who called police to the scene an hour later, Moening said.

No bullet has been recovered.

McGee's attorney, Gerald Surowiec, tried unsuccessfully to get the second-degree murder charge reduced to negligence. He claimed McGee had put the bullet into the gun at the insistence of his friend, who was intent on committing suicide. McGee even tried to prevent harm from coming to either of them by spinning the gun's cylinder so the bullet was no longer in firing position, Surowiec said.

Pierce, who was the mother of three children, is the daughter of Norma and Donald Richards of Westland. The Richards are in the process of moving to Florida.

Wayne minister dies

By BARBARA GOFFMAN
ANP Special Writer

Friends and associates of the Rev. Harold W. May remember him as a man of tremendous faith and hope.

"Although he had a number of physical infirmities in his later years, they never stopped him from being positive and encouraging to others," said the Rev. Gregory Gentry, formerly of the Canton Calvary Assembly of God.

May, founder of the Wayne Gospel Tabernacle Church, died July 23 of natural causes. He was 94.

May became a pastor in 1931, after a brief career as a wood pattern maker. In March 1933, he moved from Ohio to Wayne to pioneer the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church in a storefront building on Park Street.

When the congregation grew beyond the means of the building, May founded the Wayne Gospel Tabernacle Church.

He served as pastor of the church until his retirement in 1966.

May is survived by his sons, the Rev. H. Norbert May of Asheville, N.C. and the Rev. Harold May Jr. of Reynoldsburg, Ohio. He also is survived by a daughter, Jean Bassett of Wayne. He has seven grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

May was preceded in death by his wife, Elsie May, in 1980, and his daughter, Phyllis Betz, in 1944.

Funeral services for May will take place at 1 p.m. July 27 at the UHT Funeral Home in Westland, with his sons officiating.

The body may be viewed at the funeral home Wednesday and Thursday during regular viewing hours.

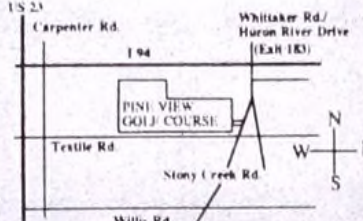

Interment will be at the Glenwood Cemetery in Wayne.

New Marriott enters airport hotel wars

By THEODORE G. COUTLISH
ANP News Editor

Marriott Corporation President William Tielef wanted to set something straight right off the bat.

"This hotel is not just another pretty face," he said before grand-opening festivities at the Romulus Marriott Hotel on Flynn Drive near Detroit Metro Airport.

That may be so, but it's difficult to believe that Marriott's latest entry into the Metro Airport area hotel wars, at last count 20 hotels, will not only survive, but succeed.

Especially because the full-service hotel will even compete against itself. Marriott also operates a limited-service hotel less than two miles away, inside Metro Airport.

To that Tielef shrugs off as part of the competitive hotel business. He said specialized services and a keen marketing strategy will enable the new Marriott to stay afloat among the flood of area hotels.

"We're big in the meeting business," Tielef said. "We focus on the quality care business traveler. Therefore, we are not necessarily catering to the same tier of customers the other hotels may service. "The difference being the level of service you get here. We have extensive meeting rooms, banquet facilities and room service. People who entertain are the ones who use this hotel."

They're also the ones who return for repeat business.

"Our hotel inside Metro Airport for a number of years had a lot of turnover business in midweek," Tielef said. "So we started counting those people we couldn't accommodate."

But so were other hotel chains. Seven of them, in fact, have built hotels in the area in the last two years. The abundance of lodging has Tielef cautious about his optimism, at least for now.

"Hopefully, the balance of supply and demand will equal out," he said. "Metro Airport has planned $1 billion in updates which should increase the amount of travelers."

As of now, less than 25 percent visit the hotel on group business; the rest either on business or for pleasure, according to Stuart Terrell, hotel general manager.

The amount of group business will improve when the hotel becomes better noticed by business travelers, Terrell said.

The newest entry in the airport hotel wars is the Marriott on Flynn Drive. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

"A lot of hotels use price as a method of competing," he said. "We want to use service as a method of competing. Every person who comes here expects extraordinary customer service. It's important to us how a customer feels after a visit."

The 251-room hotel includes four meeting rooms and can accommodate groups from 10 to 425 people. Other features are: an indoor pool, health club, sun deck, gift shop, restaurant and concierge level.

Terrell said the hotel hired most of its 100 employees from the area. He cited other benefits to the community as giving residents another option for both dining and out-of-town friends and relatives to visit.

"We always like to think of ourselves as the extra bedroom in your home," he said.

charges. The attorneys from both groups are planning to meet to discuss the allegations, said Sullivan.

The EPA banned the manufacture of PCBs in 1979 because of their toxicity and persistence in the environment.

PCBs take several decades to decompose. When released into the environment, they can be taken up and stored in the fatty tissues of all organisms. From there, they are slowly released into the blood stream.

"The cumulative quantity of PCBs consumed by man, who is at the end of the food chain, can be quite significant," said Terence Bonance, an EPA environmental scientist.

Documented tests on laboratory animals show that various levels of PCBs can cause reproductive effects, gastric disorders, skin lesions and cancerous tumors, Bonance said.

Although PCBs are no longer manufactured, many electrical transformers and capacitors are still legally in service. Certain chemical manufacturing processes result in the inadvertent production of PCBs, as well.

The Toxic Substance Control Act now controls the phase-out of existing PCB uses and sees to the safe disposal of PCBs.

Area resident seeks judge post

Belleville resident Felix Rogalle is seeking election to the recently created judgeship in the 34th District Court.

The district covers Belleville, Romulus and the townships of Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren.

Rogalle has practiced law for 27 years, 23 of these in private practice in Romulus.

"One important problem facing the 34th District Court is a heavy caseload. This judgeship was created to alleviate this problem," said Rogalle. "The person who fills this judgeship must be willing to devote the hours necessary to reduce this heavy caseload and permit litigates to have their cases heard timely, thoughtfully and fairly. The private practice of law uniquely prepares an attorney for this commitment."

Rogalle said the new judicial seat is important and the person who fills it must be selected carefully. He believes the relationship of a judge and the community in which he or she serves is very important and is "one of the keystones of our democratic way of life."

"Rights of the victim are as important as the rights of the criminal defendant," Rogalle said. "Fairness to all is important as well as treating citizens in the community and visitors

Sayre family sells farm market

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

For as long as most residents can remember, there has been a Sayre's Farm Market on Ecorse Road. However, at the end of the season this year, the market will close its doors permanently, and the 167-acre farm will become the property of a trio of West Bloomfield businessmen.

"We are going to stay open until the end of the season, but after that, I'm not sure what we will be doing," said Joan Sayre. "We plan to stay in the area, and Jim (her husband) is interested in continuing to do some farming - maybe on a smaller scale."

Not only is the farm market a "tradition" in Van Buren Township, but the Sayre family traces its roots in Michigan to 1835, and their property, which fronts Ecorse Road, has been designated as a Michigan

Centennial Farm.

The Sayres are not sure how the new owners will develop the property, but they anticipate it will be used for some type of commercial and residential development. The township master plan lists the area as commercial and residential land, which could indicate the possibility of single-family housing in the future.

"I'll really miss the business," Joan Sayre said. "We've had some of the same people shopping here year after year since 1965. We have adults coming here to pick or buy produce who I remember as little kids coming here with their parents years ago."

The Sayre farm has been a regular source for strawberries, corn and pick-your-own produce - green stringless beans, half-runners, mustard greens and turnip greens - plus a variety of fruits and vegetables and some snack items.

"When the time comes for the house to come down, I know it will make me feel very sad," she said. "The house is more than 100 years old, and there is another house down the road that is even older. It was a beautiful Greek revival-style in its day."

In the early 1870s, Mary Walruth Sayre, a widow, moved to Van Buren Township with her son and two daughters. She eventually returned to her former home in Iowa, but her son Charles remained in Van Buren Township to build his own home and operate a farm.

According to a history of the family, written by Cathy Horste and Diane Wilson in Water Under the Bridge, the son of Charles and Elizabeth Lilley Sayre, Lavern Sayre, married Aleda Woods. They had four children, Charles, Jean, Winifred and James, the current owner of the farm property.

The Sayre house is a copy of the Smith Centennial Farm, in Denton, according to area historians. It was said to cost $1,400 to build, and in recent years cost $1,400 to paint.

James Sayre is a 1946 Belleville High School graduate. He was elected to serve as a Van Buren Township trustee in 1960 and as a Van Buren Public Schools trustee in 1970 and 1974. He also was appointed to the school board on two occasions. Sayre was an unsuccessful candidate for township trustee on the Republican ticket in 1988. He also has been a member of the Kellogg Farmers, Belleville Jaycees, Belleville Rotary and was state director of the Michigan Farm Bureau in 1972-1988.

James and Joan Wales Sayre are the parents of five sons - Jeffrey, Thomas, Robert, Ronald and James - and the grandparents of six youngsters.

New legislation focuses on the family

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Staff Writer

In a bipartisan effort, state lawmakers continue work on the children and family services bill, Senate Bill 937, which aims to help disadvantaged youth, who have fallen between the cracks of the social services system.

State Sen. Jack Welborn (R-Kalamazoo) is sponsor of the bill. He said the purpose of the legislation is to have an independent agency of the state Department of Social Services, which would gradually develop into a Child and Youth Services Department in approximately five years.

The agency and ultimately the department would create pilot programs to help children in abusive situations and coordinate state funding so there would be no duplication of services, according to Welborn.

"Too many kids are lost in the system, whether it's the DDS or Department of Public Health. We need to do a better job with the same amount of money," Welborn said.

The Senate approved the bill May 30, and it currently rests in the House Committee on Social Services and Youth, chaired by Rep. Teola Hunter (D-Detroit).

With the recent cases of child shootings, abuse, and youth crime and drug abuse, lawmakers realize something must be done to combat juvenile delinquency and drug abuse, according to Welborn.

Currently, no department in the state solely addresses the needs of a child.

Hunter and Welborn will meet soon to map out strategy to keep "a balanced package intact." The state legislature is currently on summer recess.

Gov. James J. Blanchard and his administration have endorsed the bill. Welborn said the governor's support and leadership will be necessary for the bill to become law by September.

The legislative road, however, has been long and hard. Five years ago the idea was conceived of a department, which focuses on saving troubled youth, according to Welborn.

Welborn said he has "encountered many turf battles" between state and county health agencies, which are sensitive to changes affecting many people.

The budget size of a Children and Youth Services department for the state would be approximately $700 million – the sixth-largest budget just behind the state criminal corrections budget, Welborn said.

"The concept is good although it still needs some fine tuning," said a spokesperson for Rep. Justine Barns (D-Westland), who supports the bill.

Parental consent plan sparks debate

By MARY SHIRODA
ANP Special Writer

Should minors be required to obtain parental consent before having an abortion?

That's the big question currently being debated between advocates on both sides of the abortion issue.

The Parental Rights Restoration Act, House Bill 5103, is slated to go before the state legislature. Passage of the bill would give parents the right to active involvement in their minor child's abortion decisions. However, a judicial alternative to parental consent is included in the bill.

Opponents to the bill maintain that adolescents would be at increased risk of medical complications by delaying abortion.

Proponents of the bill argue that abortion is the only surgical procedure that may be performed on a minor without the knowledge or consent of her parents.

Spokespersons on either side of this issue stand their ground on the matter.

Pam Landis, of Michigan Abortion Rights Action

League, said, "You can't legislate good family relations. We encourage (girls) to talk to their parents. Unfortunately lots of them are from families where they can't talk to parents. This bill would do nothing for those girls who have reason to not go to their parents."

Elizabeth Sahutskie, of Right to Life of Michigan, said she has to sign consent forms for her own child to do "a multitude of things," and that school nurses cannot give a child an aspirin without first obtaining the parent's or guardian's consent.

If a girl gets an abortion without parental consent and complications occur, "the girl is sent home to her family,"

Sahutskie said. "They had no choice to counsel her."

The judicial bypass section of the bill has created as much controversy as the main focus of the bill - restoration of parents' rights.

"We're treating women like criminals. Seventy percent of all young women under 18 have a parent's consent" before getting an abortion, Landis said. "We're forcing that other 30 percent to go to the back alleys."

"This bill does nothing to help the pregnant teen," she said. She argues that a teen is more at risk when pregnant than when she has an abortion.

Former president of Right to Life of Romulus, Sonda Step-chuk, resigned from her office because Right to Life of Michigan continues to support the bill.

"I'm pro-life, but I'm against this bill," Stepchuk said. "It does nothing to restore parents' rights."

Stepchuk believes the judicial bypass portion of the bill should be removed.

This is a child's rights bill, not a parents' rights bill," she said. "If this becomes a state law children will be given information on how to get a judicial bypass in the schools."

"Children who are the victims of incest should not have to go to their fathers for permission to get an abortion," Landis said.

Millage sought for area college

By MARY SHIRODA
ANP Special Writer

One of the biggest days in the history of Wayne County Community College is Aug. 7.

That's when Michigan voters will either approve or reject its one-mill levy for college improvements.

To help their cause, WCCC officials recently launched a promotional campaign to approve the millage.

If passed, the millage would provide $15.6 million to replace a special state subsidy of $10.4 million and a state mandated quarter-mill levy of $3.9 million paid by Wayne county residents.

Currently, WCCC is the only community college in the state operating without a voter-approved millage.

"We have been told the state is going to phase out our subsidy," WCCC Chairman Charles Morton said. "If the millage doesn't pass, we could be forced to close campuses, reduce staff and offer fewer courses."

The one-mill increase would cost the average homeowner about $31 a year, Morton said.

He said the millage would be used toward incorporating more programs for training and retraining workers in business and industry, provide more academic services for students who need help with basic skills, refurbish laboratories and shops with modern equipment that meets current safety standards and expand use of computers by students, teachers and the administration.

Supporting the proposed millage are Detroit City Council President Maryann Mahaffey, former Detroit City Council President Erma Henderson and Wayne County Commission Chairman Arthur Blackwell. They join former UAW Vice President Marc Stepp and former WCCC trustee Don Thurber as chairpersons for the campaign.

"There's no better investment than an investment in young people," said Mahaffey. "The community college is absolutely essential and this campaign is absolutely essential."

WCCC offers an innovative teacher program geared to help students become familiar with working in an urban school district. The program is one of only two in the nation.

The college also offers courses to re-train laid-off auto workers for new careers.

BUSINESS

Photography studio to open

By SEAN KELLY
ANP Special Writer

Say cheese.
Only now you can say it closer to home. Focal Point Photography Studios of Farmington opened a new store July 10 at 8603 Lilley Road in Canton Township.
Reason: To better serve high school seniors at Plymouth-Canton and Plymouth-Salem high schools, according to owners.
The new location will also enable students from other area schools better access to the studio, and take some of the work load off the Farmington office, managers said.
Although the Canton office is half the size of the Farmington operation, both studios are similar in decor, according to Marisa Miller, Canton portrait manager.
"Both lobbies are very modern, done in grey, black and mauve colors, and our new office will resemble the Farmington office as far as having a lobby with pictures showing the family, wedding and graduation pictures that Focal Point has done in the past," Miller said.

As far as senior pictures go, this is the busiest time of year for the studio. The small staff, consisting of three salespeople and four photographers, are being kept extremely busy, Miller said.
"At this time we are right in the midst of shooting our seniors for the Class of '91," Miller said. "Also from April to October we have a steady stream of weddings, so we are definitely very active right now." Michele and Jerzy Jakacki, Focal Point owners, opened their first store 17 years ago.

Ted Coutilish

News editor joins staff

Detroit resident Theodore Coutilish has joined The Associated Newspapers staff as news editor.
Coutilish's responsibilities will include supervision of newsroom activities and copyediting. He will also be responsible for covering the city of Romulus.
"We are pleased Ted has joined our staff. We believe he will add to the quality of our publications as The Associated Newspapers continues to grow," said Barbara Wilson, managing editor.
Coutilish comes to the six-newspaper chain from Sport Detroit Magazine where he was an associate editor. He has also worked for the Times Herald in Port Huron, The Advisor Newspapers in Utica and with General Motors Corp.
He is a graduate of Wayne State University with a degree in journalism, and he is a master's candidate at the University of Michigan.
Funeral home receives honors
David C. Brown Funeral Home, Belleville, has entered its second year as a member of the International Order of the Golden Rule.
Members of IOGR, an association of more than 1,500 funeral homes in the U.S., Canada and abroad, base their service on the philosophy of respecting family wishes, honoring their requests and providing support and assistance during a time of need.
To become a member, the David C. Brown Funeral Home had to receive recommendations from the community, meet strict professional and ethical standards and earn 100 percent approval by the board of directors of the group.

Opinion

If this were a perfect world...

If this were a perfect world, teen-age girls would not become pregnant, and we would not be faced with the current parental consent legislation before our state lawmakers.

If this were a perfect world, all teens would feel free to discuss such sensitive issues openly with their parents without fear of abandonment.

If this were a perfect world, young women would not be the victims of rape and incest.

If this were a perfect world, every young person would feel comfortable with demanding justice through the court system.

But this world is far from perfect, and so we must face the cold, hard facts about abortion and teens.

Current legislation would require that minor girls obtain permission from their parents before undergoing an abortion.

This is great. Children should be able to go to their parents with such delicate issues, and discuss them openly and calmly.

As we examine the news lately, however, it does not appear as if every minor has that luxury.

Families are separated and in turmoil. Fathers are raping their daughters. Mothers and fathers are killing their children, beating them in the most violent manner imaginable.

How do these young people go to their parents to discuss their future, and their desire to have an abortion?

Indeed, will they even be able to find their families in order to discuss the matter?

Of course there is that clause in the parental consent package which allows a minor to pursue her wish for an abortion through the courts. Making a trip to the courthouse, scheduling an appointment with the judge, filing the appropriate paperwork...

There are many young women who are very capable of taking such actions. They are mature young adults with hopes for the future and respect for themselves.

They, however, are not usually the stratum of teens who finds themselves pregnant and at the end of their rope.

So, for some the legislation may be workable, but for those who really need help the legislation is just another roadblock - another hurdle for them to climb in order to survive.

So, in a perfect world parental consent legislation makes sense. In the world in which we live, it does not.

Young women must have the right to make a decision about abortion. All women deserve to make a choice.

Specialized agency needed

State lawmakers are considering the development of a separate state department designed to meet the needs of young people.

Never before have young people needed this type of governmental support.

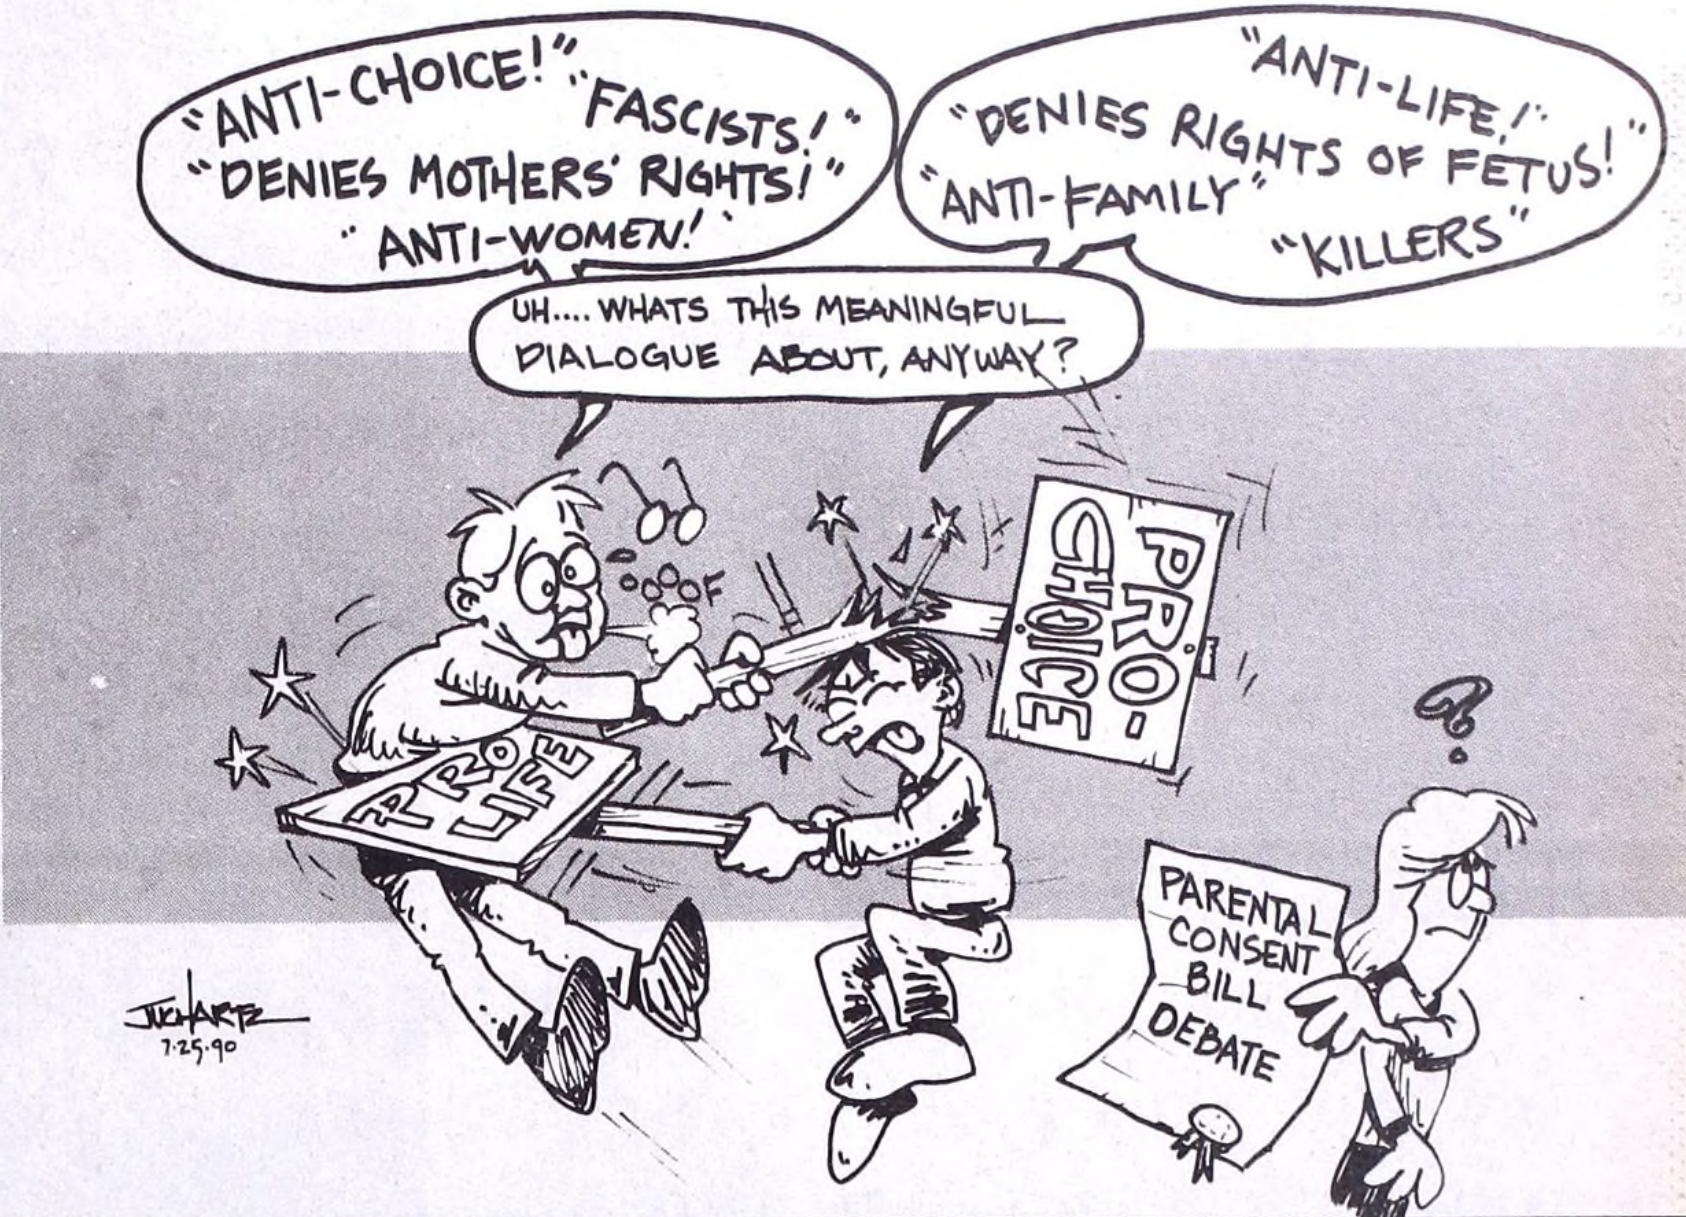

Young people seem to be taking the brunt of problems faced by society - drugs, physical and emotional abuse.

In Detroit, we hear of a woman's boyfriend throwing a baby through a window out of anger. We hear of a little boy, once removed from the home, who is held captive by his parents and abused repeatedly until he finally dies. A young runaway is killed and then her body is mutilated in Warren.

These are the types of stories that make sane people sick to their stomachs.

These types of situations must end before a whole generation is affected by the mistreatment.

The concept of a state department dedicated totally to children makes a great deal of sense. It has long been supported by Gov. James J. Blanchard and current legislation is being sponsored by state Sen. Welborn. They deserve credit for seeking to improve the lot of children.

"Vote appreciated"

The Wayne-Westland Citizens For Education Committee thanks the citizens who voted in the June 11, 1990 school millage election.

While there was a large voter turnout, a majority disapproved of the tax increase for the next two years. The citizens of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools have spoken very clearly three times in the last nine months declaring that they want "new priorities - not new taxes." It is very obvious that the school officials have carried out their threats of program cuts, layoffs, and intimidation, but it is also very obvious that the voters have still said "No" very loudly three times.

It is the responsibility of school officials, elected and employed, to begin a realistic appraisal of revenues and expenditures for the coming year. Then they must restore as many student programs, recall as many laid-off employees, and rebuild as much integrity as possible for the education of our children.

It is also the responsibility of school officials to devote as much energy, effort, initiative and leadership to running the schools without the tax increases as they did in campaigning for its passage.

The members of the board of education have been elected to lead, and the school administration has been hired to lead, but obviously they have been leading in one direction while the majority of the people have been going in the opposite direction. It is now time for the board as well as the administration to follow the majority of the voters or get out of the way.

Invest some time

Things that are uplifting and helpful are needed in Wayne. We need to invest some time in making things a little better for our neighbors, our customers and ourselves. We cannot expect new businesses to come to Wayne if it is perceived to be an undesirable or difficult place to do business.

We have recently lost several independent businesses. Their owners spent their working lives in Wayne. They built solid reputations and prospered. Maybe they could have used a little more help from the city bureaucracy. Or maybe they could not stand any more "help". In any case, they stayed, they served the community, they succeeded.

Historically, people succeed or don't succeed in direct proportion to their willingness to work harder than their competition. Our incomes, whether we are a business owner or employee, depend on our hard work. If the owner makes a bad decision, the business could fail. If we are a poor employee, we could lose "our" job.

If someone or some organization was set to destroy your years of hard work, the normal person would become very angry. The normal reaction would be to strike back, with all the power at your command. After all, you know that you have done your best. If you have made a mistake, you have corrected it or at the first opportunity, you have apologized. After all, your business can't grow or you can't win a promotion, if you try to run rough shod over the very people you are expecting to be your customers.

The thing that brings a favorable response to a problem, is to be able to reach those in charge. In this society, all elected officials will answer questions and discuss their reasons for decisions. If they act on personal opinion only, or in their own personal interest, their careers of public service will be very short. If on the other hand, they have done the best they could with the demands and needs of their office, voters will return them to serve again. As we grow up, we come to accept the fact that we can make a mistake. If your employer points out an error or mistake, it is because he wants it corrected. A normal employer wouldn't close the whole company if he found a problem, he would correct the problem! If anyone knows of illegal or improper actions by the administration of Wayne, they should make the facts known. If we just do not "like" someone, then that is our problem.

William Garrett

Official should take cuts, too

I'm a taxpayer for Wayne-Westland schools and I would like to ask Dr. O'Neill what kind of cuts he's going to take along with the other administration. Is he going to take a layoff?

It seems that every time something comes up, it's always the little people that have to take the cuts and layoffs. Like the custodians, transportation, cafeteria departments. Now what kind of cuts and layoffs are you going to take?

I think you can still do some trimming from the top. I also think the little people are sick and tired of paying for the administration's mistakes. They have to pay the same for a loaf of bread as you do. The custodians don't even get a cost of living anymore and their overtime was also cut.

I think they have done their share already. I think it's your turn now. Other taxpayers would also like to see this. If you are taking a cut and layoff, I think you should prove it.

We apologize for the delay

Mail subscribers received their newspaper one day late last week. We apologize.

Due to a storm and subsequent power outage in Clarkston where The Associated Newspapers are printed, the newspapers were late "off the presses."

Because we did not receive the newspapers until late in the morning, we were unable to provide same-day mail delivery.

This situation was unavoidable, but we do apologize for any inconvenience it may have caused.

Beautiful people are no fun

Just Desserts

Sue Willett

After extensive and exhausting research, it has been unanimously decided (by myself) that the beautiful people are really no fun.

It took hours and hours of close examination and comparison of stories in movie magazines and gossip tabloids while standing in line to purchase candy bars at various establishments which also sell these publications. (Hey, you didn't think I'd actually shell out the money to BUY these rags did you?)

Look at all the trials and tribulations these perfect human specimens face and tell me they are fun people. They are always getting married, divorced, left behind heartbroken or fighting. Why, several of them have had at least seven fatal illnesses of one type or another, and they are always seeing the ghosts of OTHER beautiful people who tell them not to get fat and which roles to take and stuff like that.

Can you imagine having them at a party? All they'd talk about would be face lifts, ghostly sightings and their broken hearts. Then they'd bore everyone talking about how they invested or spent their money—any that some manager or agent or somebody didn't steal.

All that would get real boring real fast. I mean how many heartbreaking romances can you counsel a pal through anyhow? Nope, I'm more comfortable with a big pitcher of very sweet lemonade and a tray of homemade cookies talking with real people about important things.

Like, where has Elvis last been sighted, whether or not Burt Reynolds really had his face lifted and is Roseanne Barr actually a voo-doo high priestess? Important stuff like that.

Here is a recipe for one of my favorite summer cookies. I'm going to eat them until someone offers me an exorbitant amount of money to be perfect. Until then, I'm going to enjoy life.

Old-fashioned sour cream cookies

3 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2/3 cup unsalted butter, slightly softened
1 1/3 cups granulated sugar
2 large eggs
2 1/4 teaspoons vanilla extract
3 to 4 teaspoons lemon extract
1/4 teaspoon finely grated lemon zest
1 cup dairy sour cream

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease several baking sheets. In a small bowl, stir together 2 tablespoons granulated sugar and 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon until well mixed. Set aside.

Sift together flour, salt, baking soda, baking powder and cinnamon. Place butter and sugar in a large mixing bowl and beat until lightened and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Add vanilla and lemon extract and beat until well-blended. Alternately add dry ingredients and sour cream, beginning and ending with dry ingredients and adding about a third of the total at a time. Drop dough by generous teaspoonfuls onto baking sheets spacing them about 2 inches apart. Lightly sprinkle each cookie with some of the sugar-cinnamon mixture. Place in upper third of oven and bake for 10 to 12 minutes or until edges are barely tinged with brown. Reverse baking sheets halfway through baking, front to back, to ensure even browning. Cool on cookie sheets for 2 minutes, then on rack.

Old-Fashioned cooking is best

Children attending a weeklong Bible school recently at the 150-year-old First United Methodist Church in Belleville tasted a bit of the past last week.

The children were in the kitchen helping adults measure, sift and stir the ingredients to make the kind of cookies and cakes their great-grandmothers made.

A lot of recipes in old cookbooks had to be "worked down," said Verdis Shephard, who has been helping out in the church kitchen for 60 years. One might come across a recipe calling for a measurement "the size of a walnut," she said.

"We came across a recipe that called for a half of a 10-cent jar of mustard," she laughed.

Jonathan Smith, B. J. Bach and Derrick Markel were at the kitchen counter Friday greasing pans and measuring the oatmeal for Margaret's Oatmeal Drops, a recipe Shephard found in a cookbook from an Iowa church that was established in 1857.

While the children helped in the kitchen, Shephard shared experiences from her childhood and told stories about what it would have been like in the "old days" when their church was founded.

When a couple of burned oatmeal cookies were pulled from the oven she jokingly said, "Grandma must have put another stick on the fire."

The charred cookies would have been "thrown to the chickens," she said.

The children also made "real" butter. An antique butter churn like great-grandma used was on display, but they made their butter in baby food jars, shaking whipping cream in the tiny containers until the whey separated out and a soft, pale yellow butter had formed.

Back in great-grandma's day everything was used up. They were the first "recyclers," laughed Mary Ferguson, who was demonstrating soap-making with her husband, Fay.

"We'd save all fats including bacon grease and beef fat," Fay said, remembering when he was a young boy on his family's dairy farm. "When we had six pounds of fat it was enough to make a batch of soap." Today people can make lye soap from purchased lye, but at one time it was made from the water that had been filtered through wood ashes.

"You can't eat the soap," laughed the Fergusons, though it's made from a food byproduct. The children tested the lye soap as they washed clothes in an old laundry tub on a scrub board.

Cooking, making butter and soap and corn husk dolls were among the many activities the children at the First United Methodist Church Bible School experienced. They said they enjoyed their opportunity to experience the kind of life their ancestors knew.

Below are a sampling of the recipes whipped up by the class.

Margaret's oatmeal drops

1 cup raisins
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup water
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup shortening
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups oatmeal

Cook raisins in water until soft. Save 5 tablespoons of the liquid in which raisins were cooked. Cream shortening and sugar. Beat in eggs. Mix soda, salt and cinnamon with flour. Add alternately with raisin water. Stir in raisins, nuts and oatmeal. Drop dough from teaspoons onto greased cookie sheets. Bake about 10 minutes at 375 degrees.

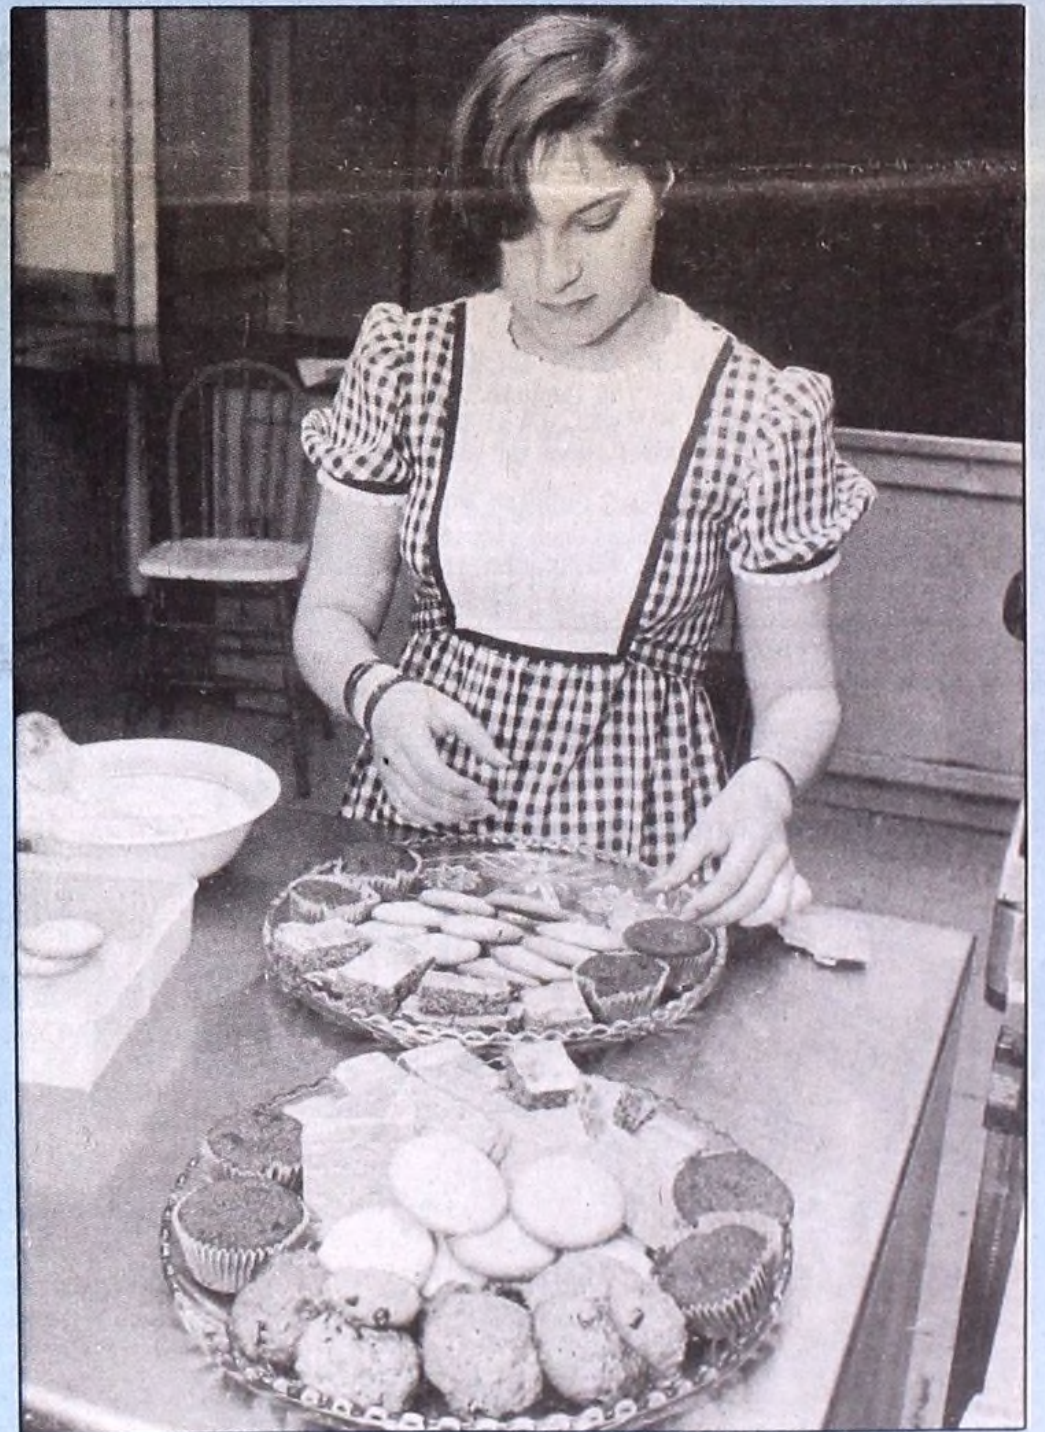

Commeal cookies

3/4 cup oleo or butter
1 teaspoon baking powder
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup raisins (optional)
1/2 cup cornmeal

Mix salt and sugar. Add egg and beat well. Add the remaining ingredients and mix well. Drop by teaspoons on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes, or until lightly browned.

Applesauce wheat cake

1/2 cup shortening
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup applesauce
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves

1 1/2 cups wheat flour
1 cup raisins

Cream shortening, add sugar, mix and beat until smooth. Add applesauce and mix thoroughly. Sift wheat flour, measure and add soda and spices and sift into batter. Pour raisins on top of meal, mix all together and beat for 2 minutes. Bake in greased and wheat-floured loaf cake pan for 35 to 40 minutes at 350 degrees. This recipe may also be baked as cupcakes.

Soft gingerbread

1 cup molasses
1 1/2 teaspoons ginger
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cloves
1/4 cup butter
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg

1/4 cup shortening
1 cup sour milk (add 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice)
2 eggs, well beaten
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon

Cream butter and shortening with sugar and molasses. Beat in eggs. Add flour, soda, cinnamon, ginger, cloves and nutmeg alternately with milk and mix after each addition. Pour into a 9 X 13-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Oakwood is Advanced Medicine

Laser Surgery

Since its introduction at Oakwood Hospital in 1979, the use of laser technology for the treatment of many types of diseases has grown dramatically. The reason is simple. In most cases, laser surgery results in less pain, bleeding, anesthesia, time in the hospital and time away from work. In fact, procedures which only a few years ago meant lengthy hospital stays and recovery at home now can be accomplished on an outpatient basis, allowing patients to get back to normal lifestyles within days.

Through Oakwood physicians, patients have access to the various types of lasers available. CO₂, Argon and KTP/ND: Yag lasers. These lasers are applied in the medical specialties of ears, nose and throat, urology, neurosurgery, ophthalmology, gynecology and general surgery.

Oakwood Health Services is one of the largest health care systems in Michigan, with five hospitals, more than 30 local health care and specialty centers and more than 1,000 physicians in every major health care specialty and subspecialty. Oakwood will serve more than half a million patients this year.

'Final 4' Undeclared Belleville All-Stars keep district championship hope 'alive'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville's All-Stars have made it to the 'Final 4'. Manager Kevin Carrico's club survived qualifying competition last week to advance to the playoffs which began this week in neighboring Ypsilanti. The All-Stars were scheduled to play in Ypsilanti Tuesday night against Jackson West County. "We're proud of this group," said the All-Star manager. "These kids never give up."

The team is composed of 12-year-old Little League players who play in the Belleville American League. Carrico and coach Lou Jamnick have fielded a team in the post-season that is presently undefeated.

The All-Stars managed to keep their state championship dreams alive last week by edging Columbia, 4-3, in the final game of a three-game series.

Chris Jamnick went the distance, notched eight strikeouts and walked two in pitching a six-hitter for the victory over Columbia. Belleville received a superlative batting effort from Matt Davenport who drilled two hits, which accounted for two runs batted in. Jamnick helped his own cause with a pair of hits in three appearances at the plate.

Knotted at 2-2 until the top of the sixth - the last inning in Little League competition - Columbia broke the tie to take the lead 3-2. Then, in their final at-bats, Belleville erupted for two runs with two away to seal the victory.

Columbia gave up the winning run when its pitcher unleashed a wild pitch, allowing Eddie Martell to score from third base with the decisive tally.

Jamnick was near-perfect in the opening game as he fanned 15, gave up three hits and three walks en route to a 3-2 victory over Ypsilanti National at Beck Field.

Patrick Wilkerson led the winners' assault as he checked in with two hits in three official appearances at the plate. Jamnick and Martell each chipped in one hit.

The All-Stars also shut out Jackson Southwest, 11-0, as winning pitcher Jacob Gabrys went the distance. He whiffed 12 and walked three and missed posting a coveted no-hitter when Jackson collected a hit in the final frame.

Wilkerson again came through for the winners as he stroked a pair of doubles in four trips, while Matt Davenport also had two hits for the winners. Martell punched across three runs and Gabrys finished with a pair of hits in three appearances.

The district champ will have an opportunity to play for the state title. Times and sites for the state championships will be disclosed at a future date, Belleville All-Star officials said.

Romulus driver chasing title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A Romulus race car driver is chasing the title at the Flat Rock Speedway.

Veteran driver Dave Miller is among the leaders in the American Racing Car Association's Figure-8 Drivers. Miller has compiled 1104 points and trails four others in the division standings.

Dearborn Heights' Bob Studd is the driver to catch. He has a 1260 point total, followed by Ben Benedict of Richmond (1150), Kenny Ahlgren of Garden City (1145) and Jack Dandy of Taylor (1140).

There are at least four other drivers from Romulus who are seeking ARCA Figure-8 recognition. Romulus is represented in the Figure 8 by Danny Leppen (1045), Danny Gaddis (1025), Robbie Loving (720), and Ray Gaddis (520).

In the meanwhile, Belleville's Dennis Strickland is among the top ARCA street stock drivers racing at Flat Rock this season.

Belleville all-stars

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Keeping true to tradition, an Inkster sprinter surfaced with a gold medal at the prestigious Hershey Track & Field meet staged last week in Howell.

Tracey Hood, competing in the 9-10-year-old category, was the first to cross the finish line in the 100-meter dash. The Inkster sprinter later returned to compete in the standing long jump and leaped to a sixth-place medal.

Over the past three years, Inkster has produced at least one gold medalist in the dashes at Howell.

Inkster athletes, 43 strong, fared well at the meet which helps coaches pick athletes from the state for the annual Great Lakes Region team which will compete at the national championships later this summer.

The nationals are hosted by Hershey, the candy-manufacturing company whose corporate offices are located in Hershey, Penn. Approximately 1,500 youngsters representing 68 communities and agencies throughout Michigan sought to qualify at Howell for the opportunity to represent Michigan and the Great Lakes region at the nationals.

Inkster also received a medal-winning performance from its 11-12-year-old 100-meter relay team. The lineup of that team included the names of Desmond Simmons, Cornell Washington, Tyrone Taylor and Alondrae Davis, which finished fifth.

The 13-14-year-old 100-meter relay placed sixth thanks to the efforts of Collette Moses, Tamesha Murray, Sharletta Bailey and Terri Upthegrove.

With Freddie Taylor, Derrick Harrelle, Tony Purvis and Adam Chatman in the lineup, Inkster fielded the second-best 100-meter relay team in the 13-14 age group.

Other individual medalists included Taylor, who was runner-up in the standing long jump competition; Clinton Smith, third place in the softball throw; and Harrelle, third place in the 800-meter run.

City championship golf deadline nears

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Area golfers who plan to compete in the 31st annual City Championship Golf Classic have eight days to submit their entries.

Registration for the 1990 classic will end at 5:30 p.m. Friday, August 3. The 36-hole tournament, which will decide the championships for four cities and a township, will be conducted the weekend of August 11-12 at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton Township.

The course is located at 2936 Lotz Road, off of Michigan Avenue West, a quarter-mile north of the I-275 Expressway.

The tournament, sponsored by the parks and recreation departments of Wayne, Westland, Romulus, Inkster and Canton Township and The Associated Newspapers, decides the city championships of the participating communities. It is also a qualifier for the Michigan parks and recreation state championship which will be decided later this year.

To enter, golfers are asked to fill out the registration form accompanying this story. There is a $40 registration fee which covers the costs of the two-day golfing and the trophies.

Please make checks payable to William Hawley, tournament manager.

"Entries have been coming in at a faster than expected pace," Hawley said. "Although last year we fell short of the anticipated 100 golfers, I feel if the entries continue to arrive at this pace, we may reach that number this year."

Golfers will play 18 holes on Saturday, Aug. 11 (preliminary round), then return for the championship round the following day. Separate city championships will be conducted simultaneously for all participating communities.

Tee times will appear in this publication the Thursday before the tournament.

There will be additional flight competitions only if the total entry for a particular city warrants it.

Trophies will be awarded for golfers finishing in first, second and third place of each of the flights. An additional trophy will be awarded to the individual low scorer of the entire field (medalist).

Wayne golfers will also be competing for the Patrolman Leonard Anderson Memorial Trophy. The traveling trophy is presented to the medalist of the city of Wayne's championship flight.

Local track teams to seek Metro Youth Fitness medals

Following the qualifying competitions staged last week at Westwood Park, about 70 athletes from the Inkster parks and recreation playground programs have entered intensive training in preparation for two major track events.

The events are the Detroit Metropolitan Youth Fitness Meet, which will be staged July 26 at the Kensington Metro Park, and the newly inaugurated Michigan Recreation Sports Festival to be staged August 3-5 in Battle Creek.

However, the first priority for the young athletes will be to make a good showing at the 33rd annual Detroit Metropolitan Youth Fitness Meet.

Detroit Metropolitan Youth Fitness was founded during the years that President Dwight D. Eisenhower was in office to bring awareness to the youth of the nation the importance of physical exercise and physical health. A President's Council on Youth Fitness was established and objectives were outlined.

The fitness meet is co-sponsored by Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan. Over 1,200 boys and girls, ages 8-14, will represent 42 metro-area communities and compete in nine different events.

One team award will be presented to the city which best represents the ideals of sportsmanship, conduct and group appearance during the meet.

However, there will be individual awards to event finalists.

The successful city team to merit the award, called the John J. Considine Award, will retain the honor and the trophy until the next meet. Considine was among the leaders who helped organized youth athletic programs in Michigan.

The city of Inkster has garnered the Considine Award four times in the last 13 years, most recently in 1986 and 1988.

The final meet of the summer will take place during the state's newest sporting showcase, the Michigan Recreation Sports Festival, sponsored by the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association.

Inkster cage leader streak is cut at 4

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Streaks are made to be broken, and the Inkster senior summer basketball leader Sunday learned that adage the hard way. After four consecutive victories and establishing themselves as the 'team to beat', Merv Harris' club fell victim 69-67 to the cagers wearing the banners of Leslie Reynolds.

Terry Harris, who had 19 first half points, collected only two points the entire second half which helped in the leader's demise. Teammate Kevin Packer also tossed in 21 and Jim Brintley added 13 for the losers.

Pierre Hudson, Inkster High cage great, and Larry Brown each accounted for 15 points while Leslie Reynolds sank 11 for the winners, who now share the top of the standings with three other teams: Harris, Wimberly, and Lewis.

In other cage action, Lewis buried winless Clark 90-67 as Michael Aaron, presently with the University of Detroit and former All-area cager from Robichaud, sparked the winners with 20 points. Teammates Juan Street and Bailey Hardy counted 16 and 13 points, respectively.

Terrance Williams led all scorers with 27, while Gerald Clark and Damon Pitwell split 28 points between them.

Jordan Junior College found its third win at the expense of Hughes' team, 73-67. Q. T. Morgan collected 16 and Darnell Tubbs added 13 for the winners. Al Dukes picked up 18 points, John Marshall counted 17 and Marvin Hughes tossed in 12 for the losers.

In other action, Wimberly destroyed T. C. Bonner, 72-60, as Anthony White led the winners with 13 points. Victor Diehl, Jr. and Darryl Green finished with 12 and 11 points for the winners.

Leroy McCoy's 14 points were the best for the losers who also received 13 from Chet Cash and 12 points from T. C. Bonner.

The cagers will be back in action at noon on Saturday at the Recreation Complex after playing last week's scheduled games on Sunday because the cats literally took over. There was a cat show at the recreation complex last Saturday, forcing the league to move their games to Sunday.

Inkster 'Open' tennis seeks players

Inkster recreation officials have set an August 10 deadline to submit entries for the 12th annual open tennis tournament.

Entries should be in the hands of recreation officials so that officials may conduct pairings on August 15.

The tournament will be staged three consecutive days, beginning August 17 on the Recreation Complex courts, located behind the Recreation Complex on Middlebelt Road.

Golf

If there is a tie for one of the trophies, a 'sudden death' play-off will be staged to determine the eventual winner.

Although the five low scorers from each of the cities are eligible to play on the city team in the state final, a golfer must be a bona fide resident of the city he plans to represent.

Entries will be accepted at the offices of the Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne. They may also be mailed to the Associated Newspapers.

What's the score?

How do you get your favorite softball or baseball team's score in the newspaper?

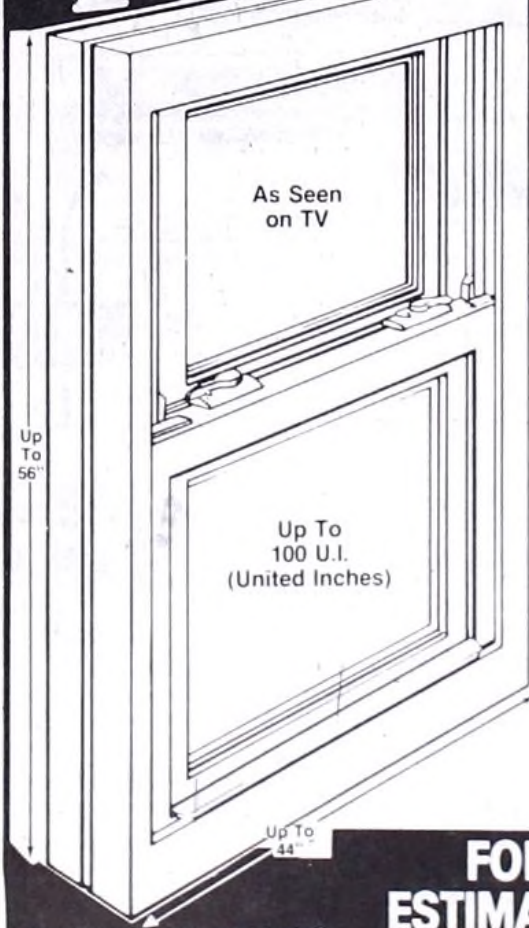

The answer is simple - drop off the scoresheet of the latest game or have the team manager phone 729-4000 before 5 p.m. on Friday.

It's that easy.

Rental cars don't have to be boring, just look

By BARBARA GOFFMAN
ANP Special Writer

Liz Missisian went to her wedding in style.

Last Friday, she and five other members of her wedding party rode in a 1938 white Rolls Royce limousine to the Little Wedding Chapel in Farmington Hills.

The car may have looked antique, but its amenities were truly modern. Seating six, the limo included air conditioning, a radio and clear paned windows to allow the occupants to see outside and to be seen. To add even more pizzazz, the steering wheel is set on the right side of the car.

Missisian rented her limousine from Forget Me Not Limousine Service, a Taylor-based service with nine antique and classic cars.

Owner Jake Jacobs said he is proud of the selection he offers to prospective brides and grooms, couples going to prom, parents bringing newborns home from the hospital and to people who are just out to celebrate a special occasion.

He especially likes the 1941 superstretch limousine his service offers. The car looks like a classic, and it runs like a dream. Its brand new Corvette engine, power steering, brakes, air conditioning and wet bar enable up to 12 riders to travel in elegance.

"You can take a whole wedding party in it," he said. "Everyone can party together and have a great time on the way to the wedding."

A few weeks back, a 13-person party did just that, drinking 15 bottles of champagne as they rode to the church, he said.

The stretch limousine also is popular because people often have seen it before, Jacobs said. Previously owned by Detroit Tigers owner Tom Monaghan, the automobile used to sit in Monaghan's museum at Domino's farms.

Other cars Jacobs has to offer include a 1951 Chrysler and a hand-built replica of a Duesenberg. Real Duesenbergs are extremely rare and cost more than a million dollars.

"This is the only 'Duesenberg' in the world that you'll see on the roads," he said.

It is made of stainless steel and has exhaust pipes in the hood and front fenders. Seating six, the stretch limo has a color T.V. and a compact disc player.

Jacobs' more popular cars, such as the 1938 Rolls Royce, usually tend to get booked far in advance. He advised people to book limos at least six months ahead of time.

"You'd be surprised," Jacobs said. "People who will rent the chapel in which to have their wedding a year in advance won't think to rent the car until the week before the ceremony. In most cases it's not a problem, unless you want a unique or very popular car, like the white Rolls."

Costs for Forget Me Not Limos run from $40 per hour for a white stretch to $100 per hour for the 1941 superstretch or the gangster. The 1938 rolls costs $75 each hour. Wedding cars must be rented for a minimum of three hours.

Jacobs' service is the only one of its kind in the Metro Detroit area. He said his cars are popular because of their uniqueness.

"Using an old car is neat,"

Jacobs said. "At weddings, they become a tremendous conversation piece, with everyone flocking around the car. The limos also date the photos. People often try to remember when an event happened by looking at the year and make of the car in the photos. Using our antique cars make the pictures look like the wedding happened 50 years ago," he said.

For more information, interested riders can phone Forget Me Not Limos at 946-7775.

Camping fair attracts crowds

A recreational vehicle fair, staged concurrently at 16 Camping World locations, attracted more than 65,000 during the three-day event.

Each of the centers was decorated in a carnival theme and a drawing was conducted every hour for prizes. In addition, dozens of factory representatives were on hand to discuss their products and provide service tips to recreational vehicle owners.

The local center is located on the Interstate-94 service drive, between Haggerty and Belleville roads.

Your favorite car tales

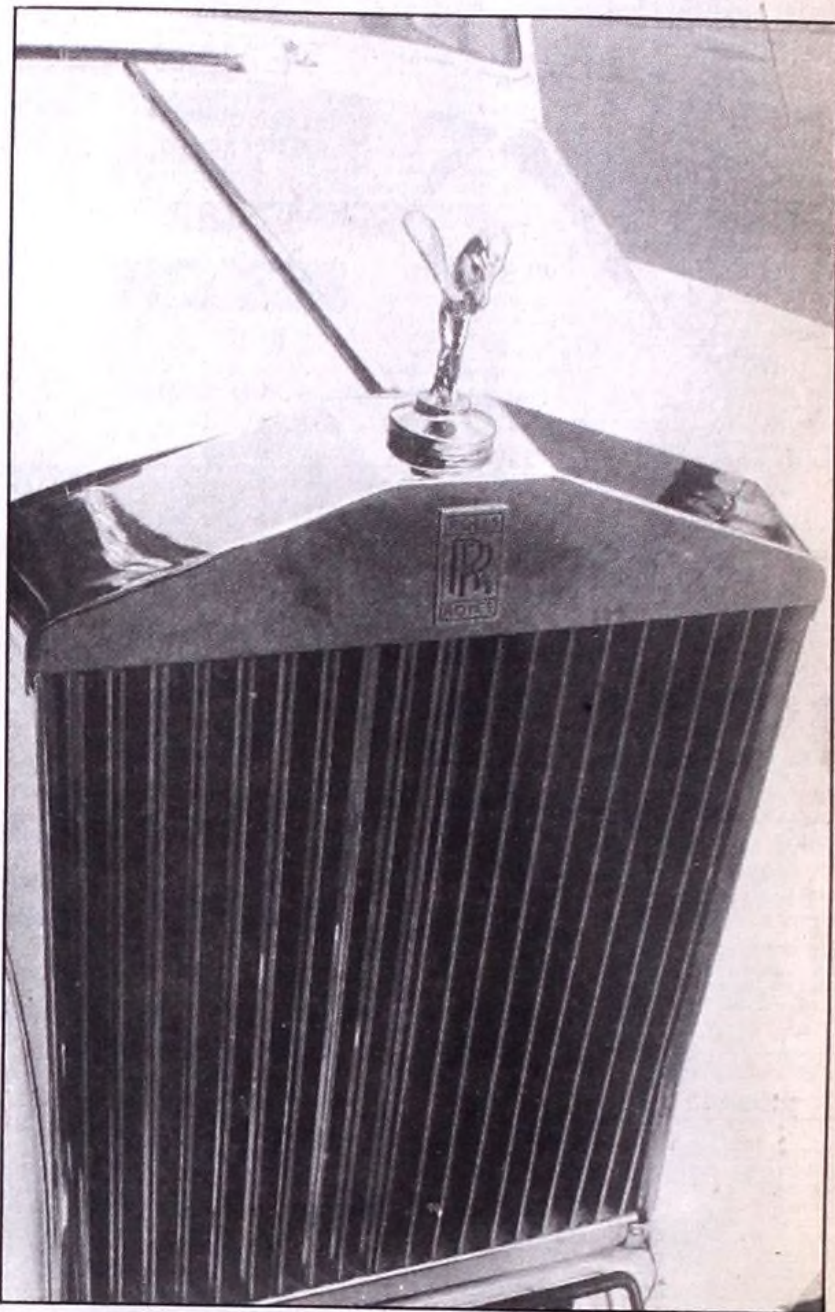

Do you remember the very first car you owned?

Today, you may think of it as a "bomb," but then it was a beauty to behold.

Associated Newspapers, Inc. welcomes stories of your favorite rite and least favorite cars. Photographs of the car are also welcome.

INSIDE

MERCHANTS: The Wayne merchants are responsible for the success of the annual sidewalk sales. 3

HISTORY: Nearly 40 years have gone by since the city of Wayne marked the first sidewalk sales event. 4

SALES, SALES, SALES: Of course the focus of the annual event are bargains, and merchants are setting aside items to be marked down. 5

SETTING THE STAGE: Preparing for the annual sidewalk sales is nearly as exciting as the sales themselves, as store employees slash prices left and right. 9

COMING UP

REAL ESTATE ETC.: The latest information about the local real estate market and new developments will be featured in this special monthly section. August 2

WELL AWARE: This comprehensive guide to health in the 1990s will reflect the changing lifestyles of area residents. August 2

AREA MERCHANTS

Business owners unite to stage sidewalk sales

BY SEAN KELLY

Mitch Robertson is convinced there is strength in numbers.

Robertson, owner of D & D Hardware in Wayne, believes the 30 or so members that make up the Wayne Merchants Association could do far worse in promoting their businesses individually.

"When we come together as a group, we have a much greater impact," Robertson said. "It's a situation where the whole is greater than the sum of all its parts. Everyone - the community, the businesses - benefit from our group's activities."

The association is just one of several organizations under the direction of the 200-member Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

All that is required for membership into the chamber is an interest in the community, particularly the business sector, and a willingness to pay yearly dues.

The committee provides monthly luncheons, which gives chamber members an opportunity to interact with each other and others in the business community.

Just recently the chamber passed out, free of charge, a community directory to both businesses and citizens of Wayne.

Activities

The Wayne Sidewalk Sale isn't the only activity going on downtown this weekend.

On Thursday, July 26, mimes will be performing in various locations from noon to 3 p.m.

At Sparks Music on Michigan Avenue, the Tommy Sparks band will play from time to time throughout the sidewalk sale.

And the Wayne Figure Skaters will have a booth at the sidewalk sale where they will offer face painting and sell juice. - By Sean Kelly

The committee also provides a monthly newsletter detailing what is going on in the business community.

In addition to these services, business referrals, insurance plans and seminars are offered to the community by the committee.

Now in its 52nd year of operation, the Wayne Chamber of Commerce can look forward to continued success of activities such as the sidewalk sale, which began in the 1950s. ■

Some things don't change, as is evidenced by this 1965 photograph of customers milling through the Northside Hardware sidewalk sales displays. One of the larger participants in the sale, Northside Hardware will once again offer bargain prices. ANP file photo

TRADITION

Sidewalk sales mark
nearly 40 years in Wayne

Wayne Sidewalk Days are here again. Get out your pocketbook and put on your walking shoes from July 26 through July 28.

It's time to take advantage of reduced prices. From staplers to sofas, items of all types will be marked down.

The 39-year tradition enables business merchants to reduce their stock at savings to customers. The public can save money if they browse the sidewalks for bargains.

Sidewalk Days first started in Wayne in 1951, but only on the sidewalks. Now, bargains can be found inside as well as outside stores.

The Wayne Merchants Association and the Wayne Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring the sale.

The original purpose of the event was to draw shoppers and promote local businesses. No doubt the tradition will continue saving shoppers money. Who knows, you might even see your neighbors there.

Local merchants participate in sales

Sidewalk Days will be staged this weekend in downtown Wayne. It is the time when store owners move their merchandise outdoors, and the public hurries to the sidewalks for specially priced merchandise.

A-1 AIR CONDITIONING AND HEATING, 35132 Michigan Ave.

Stay cool in the summer and warm in the winter. During Sidewalk Days, the store will sell air conditioning and heating units. They will also repair existing units.

For installation of a furnace or an air conditioning unit, a savings of $100 will be offered. To have a gas furnace cleaned, customers can save $20.

BURTON'S PLUMBING AND HEATING COMPANY, 34224 Michigan Ave.

Now is the time to complete that home-improvement project that has been put off for so long. Items for sale include articles for the bath and kitchen.

They are having a close-out promotion on Vanity Flair by General Marble.

COBB'S PHARMACY, 4603 South Wayne Road.

CREATIVE TREASURES, Metro Place Mall.

Due to the remodeling of the gift shop, almost everything in the store is on sale. A lot of merchandise needs to be moved, according to management.

Among prices being slashed, earrings will be discounted 50 percent. New Kids on the Block and The Simpsons items will be reduced 20 percent.

DENSON-HALL HEARING AIDS, 34914 West Michigan Ave.

Check and protect your hearing. Denson-Hall Hearing Aids will be selling hearing devices as well as amplifiers and speaker phones. Owners also said free hearing tests will be offered.

Setting the sidewalk sales stage

KEYBOARD WORLD, 35731 West Michigan Ave.

Isn't it time to invest in a piano or organ? Owners of Keyboard World think so. They will offer special prices on instruments during Sidewalk Days.

LOTS OF NICHOLS, 34904 Michigan Ave.

During sidewalk days, savings on T-shirts, jackets and sweatshirts can be found. Stock up now for Christmas gifts, suggest store owners.

Plain T-shirts in assorted colors will be marked down to $3.99 each. Sweatshirts will be priced at $7.99 each.

NORTHSIDE TRUE VALUE HARDWARE, 2912 South Wayne Road.

Management will offer "exceptionally" low prices on tools. They will sell housewares, equipment and electrical items.

Hot dogs will be available for 25 cents at the Northside display.

PARKWAY OFFICE SUPPLY, 2118 South Wayne Road.

Stock up now on those back-to-school materials, managers of Parkway suggest. Pens and notebooks will be reduced. Also on sale will be office furniture, chairs and typewriters.

Wayne Sidewalk Sales have become a tradition. Past sales have generated a great deal of support from the community, as will the 1990 event. ANP file photo

FUTURE PLANS

Development group may bring new business

Wayne city officials are hoping a plan by the Downtown Development Authority will pump new life in to the downtown business district.

"Our objective is to encourage businesses in the downtown district to expand," said John Zech, assistant city manager.

The DDAs plan involves the redevelopment of Michigan Avenue into a two-way road, permitting on-the-street parking, repaving of Sims Avenue, landscaping, sign improvement, construction and repairs of public parking lots and establishment of a low-interest loan program for existing businesses in the downtown area.

"This is probably the heart of what we are trying to do," Mayor Pat Norton said.

In the plan is adopted, financing will come from a tax increment financing plan dependent on the tax dollars from both the business and commercial base of Wayne, Zech said.

"There will not be any more addi-

The DDA was developed so Wayne could take advantage of improving the downtown area.

tional taxes," Zech said. "The regular millage will go to the city, it will just be used in different ways."

Other major improvements include the development of Goudy, Washington and Mill Trail Parks and the purchase of banners for the downtown district.

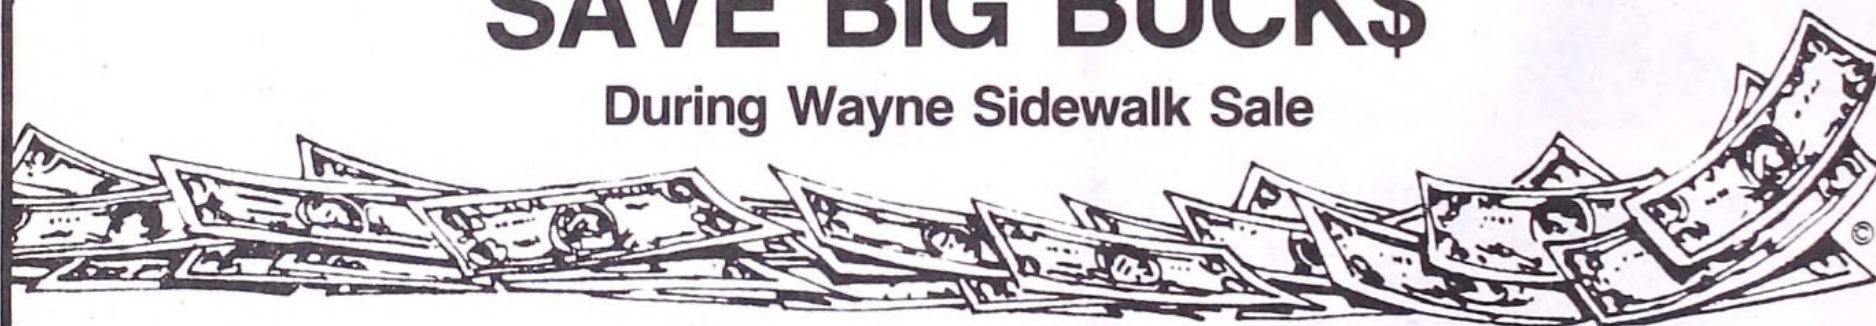

"The DDA was developed so Wayne could take advantage of improving the downtown area," Zech said.

Officials believe the DDA will help create a more positive image for the city.

"I expect the program will have a positive effect on the community," Norton said.

A MAGAZINE FOR WESTERN WAYNE COUNTY

Eye Care

Cheryl Huey, M.D.
Ophthalmologist - Eye Physician and Surgeon

IMPLANT LENSES

There is a lot of confusion about some terms used in eye surgery—cataracts, implants, transplants, contacts—the whole subject is a "blur" to most people.

An implant is a lens that is surgically placed inside the eye at the time of cataract surgery. In cataract surgery, the normal human lens is removed from the eye because it has become cloudy. In the absence of the human lens, the lens implant is needed for focusing. The lens implant, also called intraocular lens, allows the patient to have good vision without wearing contact lenses or the thick glasses that used to be worn after cataract surgery.

The lens implant is permanent, and never needs to be removed or cleaned, since it is inside the eye. They are very small, only about one-fourth inch, but are designed to be held firmly in place. Lens implants are made of a special type of plastic, and come in different powers to correct for nearsightedness or farsightedness.

Improvements in lens implants are only one of the great advances that have been made in modern cataract surgery, allowing the great majority of cataract patients to have a rapid return to excellent vision.

INSIDE

A NATIVE'S JOURNEY: Local graduate Phil Cousineau began a sort of hero's journey when he met philosopher Joseph Campbell. Cousineau's book focuses on Campbell. 4

LANDMARK EATERY: A historic landmark in Plymouth has been restored and now houses the Plymouth Landings restaurant. Now under new ownership, the restaurant features fine food, a wonderfully quaint atmosphere and a bit of the past. 7

BACKYARD SANCTUARY: Nestled in a corner of western Wayne County is a little sanctuary. It is home to birds, fish and other wildlife. It is also a little bit of heaven for the gardener who created it. 8

BUGS BUNNY'S B-DAY: A local hotel pulls out all the stops as they celebrate Bugs Bunny's birthday. Join the gala event. 11

WOMEN WORTH WATCHING: Local school board member plays active role in the community, politics and in her family. 13

YOUR OPINION COUNTS: We want to know what you want. This survey will have a direct effect on what Suburban Living will be in the future. Cast your votes. 14

ON THE COVER

NEXT ISSUE

BATHING BEAUTIES: These sweethearts of summer are too hot for even Sports Illustrated to handle. Watch for the bathing beauties in the September issue.

SUPER SLEUTH: Local mystery author and private investigators talk about the intrigue and fascination of mystery in the September issue of Suburban Living.

Author's personal journey began in Wayne

"...we have not even to risk the adventure alone, for the heroes of all time have gone before us. The labyrinth is thoroughly known. We have only to follow the thread of the hero path, and where we had thought to find abomination, we shall find a god. Where we had thought to travel outward, we will come to the center of our own existence. And where we had thought to be alone, we will be with all the world." - Joseph Campbell, noted mythologist and comparative religions professor

Throughout his career as a professor at Sarah Lawrence College, writer Joseph Campbell spoke about the mythic adventure or journey of the hero and how it related to individuals living in the modern era.

The editor of the book, "The Hero's Journey: Joseph Campbell on His Life and Work," Phil Cousineau, said he began his own hero's journey at his home in Wayne, Michigan.

"I was lucky. When I was growing up in Wayne, my parents read the classics to me and my sister. It sparked my interest in art and writing," Cousineau said.

After graduating from St. Mary's High School in Wayne in 1970, Cousineau said he worked as a writer and photographer for the now defunct Wayne Dispatch.

He then received his bachelor's degree in journalism at the University of Detroit in 1974.

Cousineau toured Europe before moving to California in 1976 to become a screenwriter.

His mother, Rosemary, lives in Dearborn Heights and sister, Nicole, in Westland.

"In California, my interest in mythology was rekindled," he said, "during conversations with other writers. Campbell's name cropped up time and time again."

Cousineau began reading Campbell's books on mythology and religion and was fascinated by the incredible synthesis of art, philosophy and psychology found in Campbell's works about mythology.

"He brought these ancient stories to life - making them relevant and vital for people living today," he said.

During this time, Dr. Stuart Brown, a psychiatrist who was also influenced by Campbell's work, was trying to make a film about the eminent scholar, according to Cousineau.

After one year of persuasion, Brown convinced Campbell to do the film, but many roadblocks were ahead because "every foundation refused Brown's request for grants," Cousineau said.

After Brown obtained funding, Cousineau said he was approached with the idea and enthusiastically agreed to help create the film.

As writer, art researcher and associate producer of the film "A Hero's Journey," Cousineau said he experienced a "shock of recognition" as he was making the film.

"I had a feeling it would be well received," Cousineau said of the film which received a National Educational Film and Video Festival Silver Award in 1988.

When Cousineau was working on the film, he said many "pop-culture" figures such as George Lucas, Francis Ford Coppola, Robin Williams and Oprah Winfrey told him how influential Campbell is to their lives.

"The Hero's Journey" details Campbell's discussion of his 38 years of work and study, dealing with the essence of human nature through the ages and its struggle with the "deep" questions of life that still mystify us.

The film was shown on PBS in 1988, the same year the "The Power of Myth," a series of interviews with Campbell and Bill Moyers, was televised.

The award-winning film documentary received an overwhelming popular response after it was shown on PBS, according to Cousineau.

During the past three years, Cousineau has shown "his labor of love" at art houses around the country and Europe, where he has lectured about Campbell and mythology and film.

The inspiration for the book, which explores Campbell's work and conversations with friends and scholars, was the hours of film outtakes and jewels of wisdom, which he "did not want buried in a vault."

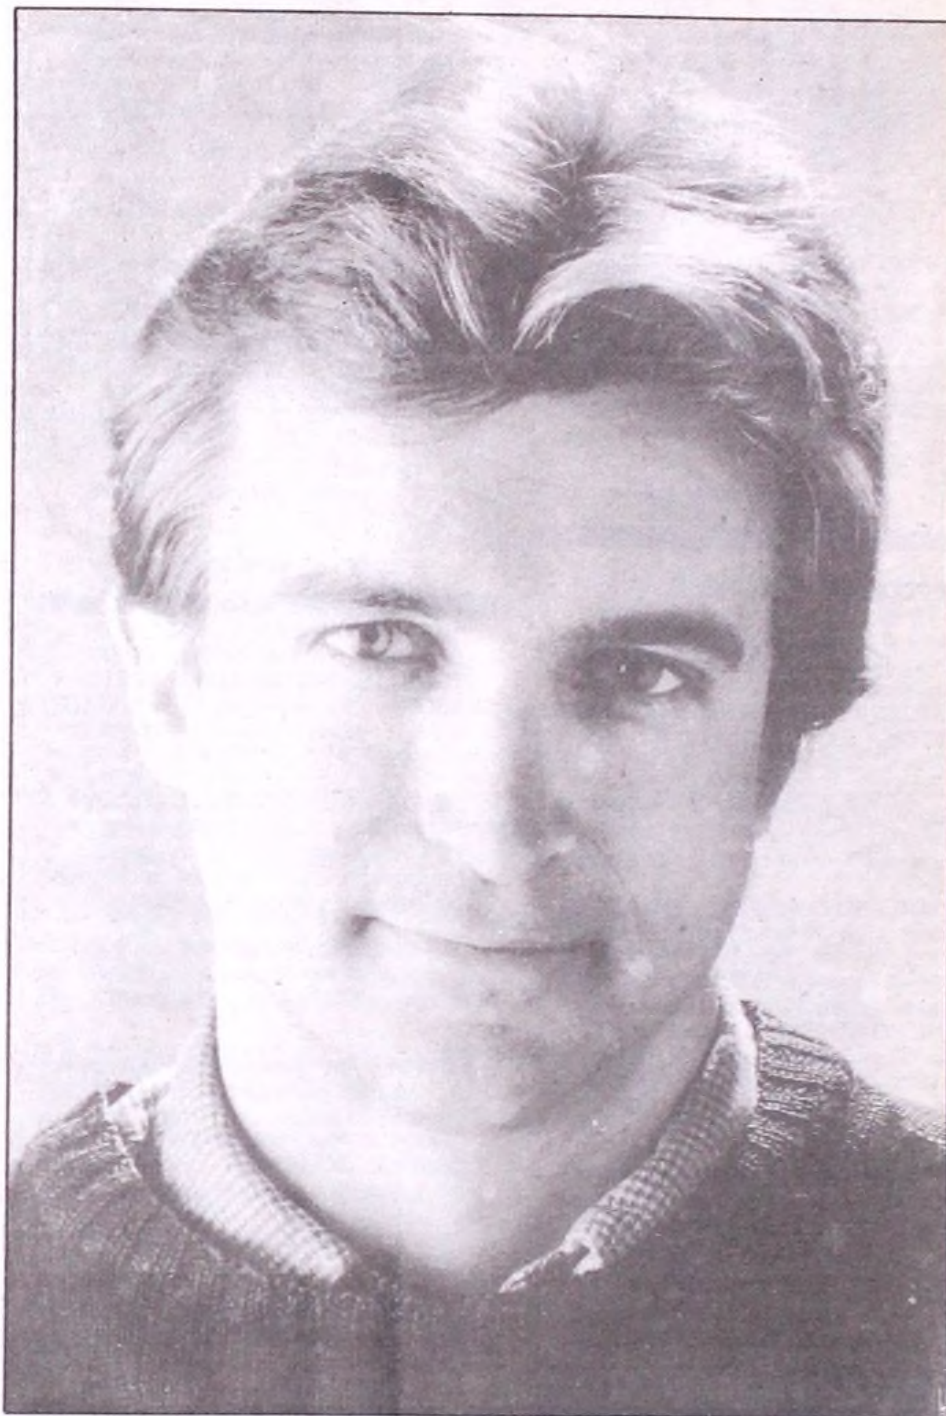

Currently, Cousineau is putting the final touches on a film called "Quanah Parker: Last Comanche Chief," which he wrote and directed.

Other film projects include documentary films such as "Lives of Activism: The Abraham Lincoln Brigade," and "Eritrea: March on Freedom."

Cousineau's prose-poem book of "famous last words" called "Deadlines" will be out soon, and he is editor of "Riders on the Storm," the memoirs of John Densmore, the former drummer for The Doors, a book due September 1990.

Phil Cousineau will be in town July 25. He will be signing his book at the Shaman's Drum Bookstore in Ann Arbor July 25 from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

History provides ambience at Plymouth Landings

By BARBARA WILSON

The rustic appearance of the new Plymouth Landings restaurant seems to add to the flavor of the dishes served there.

Just as spices and herbs perk up an entree, the rustic beams and stained glass windows of the Plymouth Landings add warmth to an already friendly place.

On our evening out, we were greeted by a hostess who escorted us to a table waiting promptly at the reserved time. There is an ample lounge for those who might be forced to wait a bit.

Our waiter introduced himself quickly leaving us with menus. We were disappointed to find that he was unsure of the specials for the evening, but that could easily have been blamed on the fact that he had just begun his shift.

Our booth was a bit dark for my taste with heavy wood encasing us. My partner, however, found it to be appropriate considering the "olde English" theme.

The menu offered a variety of dishes - seafood, steaks, chicken and much more. The usual array of offerings were available, with a sampling of more intriguing dishes thrown in.

As an appetizer, I chose the French onion soup. Although a bit on the salty side, the soup was filled with fresh onions and topped with a delicious crust of cheese and croutons.

The dinner salad, available with every meal, was quite large with crisp lettuce torn carefully into bite-size pieces. The salad was topped with a creamy garlic dressing with a touch of dill - the house dressing. The dill was very understated, but the dressing was quite tasty.

The restaurant bread basket - upon which all restaurants should be judged - was acceptable. A warm, freshly baked, dark bread was featured in the basket, with the typical packets of melba toast and crackers thrown in. The basket has hardly memorable, but the bread was certainly acceptable.

For the main course, my partner went for the seafood. He selected a special for the evening - red snapper. The portion was large and nicely prepared - flakey and light. It was accompanied by a large baked potato and healthy serving of sour cream.

I selected what is referred to as the chef's favorite - can't go wrong with that. It was called Olde English casserole and it fit the description well. An individual casserole dish was set before me filled with beef, onions and mushrooms swimming in a rich brown gravy. It was delicious. The beef was tender and prepared to perfection. The gravy contained just the right blend of spices and the mushrooms and onions added just the right touch. The portion was hefty, and the meal was accompanied by a baked potato.

The one complaint that my partner and I had about the main course, was the lack of a fresh vegetable. Vegetable dishes are available ala carte, but as a side dish the meal would have been even more delightful.

Without a second of hesitation, my partner and I asked to see the dessert tray. We were truly full, but who can pass up dessert?

This, without a doubt, was the weakest feature of the menu. The tray included a nice assortment of cheesecakes, eclairs, tortes and the like, but their taste did not live up to my expectations.

I selected a marble cheesecake. It was mediocre at best. I am a cheesecake lover from way back, and I left part of the cake behind.

My partner selected the chocolate eclair and was disappointed to find the shell was heavy, not flaky and light.

The Plymouth Landings on Plymouth Road, just north of the downtown shopping district, should not be judged on its desserts alone. The meal was quite pleasant, and we decided it would be worth another "try" some day.

Under new management, we look for the restaurant to improve even more with time and we look forward to testing it again. We recommend you try it for the first time.

Gardening to please Mother Nature

Suburban residents can easily bring a taste of rural wildlife into their backyards with a few simple steps, according to biology experts.

By planting certain species of trees and flowers, people can attract birds, squirrels, rabbits and even opossum, if the home is located in an outlying wooded area, said Grover Niergarth, a retired biology instructor and 35-year member of the Michigan Audubon Society.

Birds like areas where they can gain both food and shelter, said John Covert, a Churchill High science teacher and vice president of the William P. Holliday Nature Preserv.

Covert suggested placing feeders full of sunflower seeds close to trees or grapevines so birds can easily gain shelter if a hawk or other predator enters the area.

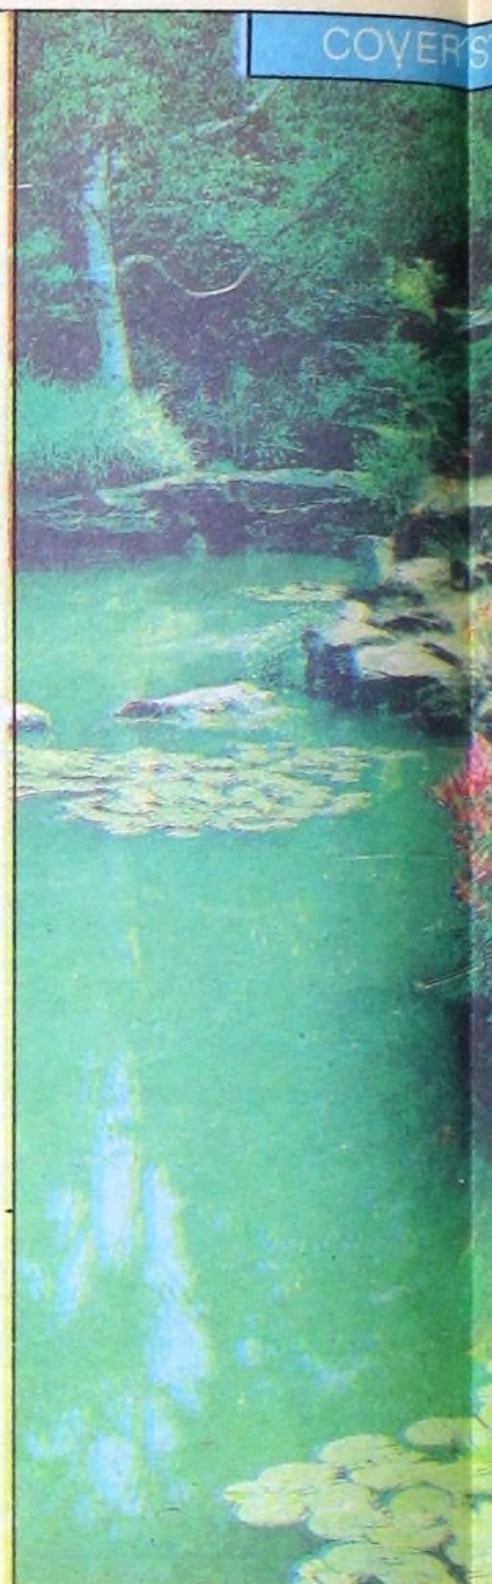

Residents interested in planting shrubs, flowers or trees to entice wildlife have several options available to them.

Flowers that bear fruit, such as mountain ash, sunflower, jack-in-the-pulpit or solomon's seals, can attract birds, woodpeckers and owls, Covert said.

Hummingbirds particularly like trumpet creepers, a shrub which bears flowers, he said.

Native dogwood trees, such as the alternate leaf dogwood, produce bird-attracting berries. Cedarwaxwings and robins particularly like autumn olive trees.

Resident creates haven for wildlife

David Young's backyard garden contains more than a lily-filled pond and plantings of trees and flowers – it is a small haven for birds and animals and a peaceful retreat for those who visit it.

"Every morning I take my coffee cup and look around the yard. It changes every day," Young said. "There's always something different in the garden each day from Memorial Day until the first frost. New plants blossom, different birds fly in and the pond creatures – fish, frogs, snails and toads – keep the scene in constant change."

The focal point of the park-like yard is the 21-foot by 15-foot fish pond which Young constructed three years ago.

"It was a difficult task to build and it takes a lot of work to maintain," Young said. "All of the gardening book give the advice, 'dig a hole, line it and fill it with water,' but there is a lot more to it than that."

The Belleville gardener dug the pool by hand and recorded his progress with photographs that form a diary of the pond-building project from the day he marked off the area with stakes through the antics of the current fish population and the latest blooming of flowers.

Water lilies in white, yellow and a variety of brilliant reds provide resting and hiding places for the frogs, while a kaleidoscope of colorful koi, omets, orandas and moors dart through the water and surface to the hand fed by the Young family.

Young, who describes himself as a grass roots gardener, has no formal training in horticulture, but calls on his background in interior design to help him plan pleasing compositions of plants, trees and flowers.

Screened by 60 blue spruce trees, the city yard has the appearance of a park or a large country garden, Young noted. During the past nine years, he and his parents have planted tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, roses, hibiscus, peonies and alyssum in the backyard garden along with clumps of wild grasses, cactus and exotic trees.

Young does the major maintenance on the garden and pond with the aid of his parents, Gaal and Myrtie Young, with whom he resides in Belleville.

"A garden must be a labor of love, because there is so much hard work involved in it – mowing, trimming and maintaining the fish pond," Young said.

Neighboring state offers weekend getaways

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER

When Belleville area residents Keith and Ginger Bruder take a vacation, it is usually a weekend getaway or a short stay – not too far from home.

Although Indiana may not be the best-known vacation spot, it offers a variety of interesting sites to visit, the Bruders said. Each area seems to have its own special flavor for tourists to savor.

The Bruders visit the Amish country near South Bend to attend the farm auctions, tour some of the historic homes in Bloomington, observe the architectural styles in Columbus and visit the arts colony in Brown County. In addition, the Bruders said, they enjoy driving the roads along the banks of the Ohio River.

A trip to Amish country is a visit to "the simple life," where people still make their own soap and candles and travel by horse and buggy. Tours are available through an Amish Acres traditional home, followed by a family-style dinner and a horse-and-buggy ride. Other sites in Napoleon and Goshen provide tourists with a glimpse into the simple, life-without-frills existence of the Amish community.

Other attractions in Indiana are:

- Rockville, the site of more than 35 covered bridges;

- Lincoln City, where tourists can view the Nancy Hawks Lincoln Memorial, the original Lincoln farm tract and the 1,730-acre Lincoln State Park;

- Indianapolis, which features the Children's Museum, President Benjamin Harrison's home, Museum of Indian Heritage, Indianapolis Museum of Art, the Indiana State Museum and the Auto Racing Hall of Fame;

- Bloomington, which features 50 historic homes, and the campus of Indiana University;

- Peru, once known as the Circus Capital of the World, which features the Circus Museum, in addition to the Miami County Museum and the Puterbaugh Museum, and

- Lafayette, which features an abundance of historic sites, a wildlife preserve, music and art attractions and a major university.

It is located in Tippecanoe County, which is the site of an 1850-era English Gothic building, now the Tippecanoe County Museum, which houses relics from the Battle of Tippecanoe, glass, Dresden porcelain and lusterware.

Cartoon hero celebrates birthday

By MARY SHIRODA

Looking for a place to "get away" where you can relax with the little ones while they have fun?

How about spending a weekend with Bugs?

Bugs Bunny, that is.

Friday, July 27th and Saturday, July 28th, the Romulus Holiday Inn will have a Bugs Bunny 50th Birthday Celebration that the whole family can enjoy.

Children will receive a free Looney Tunes welcome kit that includes pictures, games, puzzles and coloring books. Bugs will be there "in person" to pose with children for pictures.

In the evening, parents will have an opportunity to dine alone while children enjoy a free dinner, including Birthday Carrot Cake, in a special Looney Tunes dining area. Children will be under supervision, of course. They will choose their own meals from a menu where all dinners have been renamed after favorite Looney Tunes characters.

Currently, management is hoping to have non-stop cartoons in a special game area that kids can watch.

"Parents like Bugs Bunny cartoons as much as their kids do," said Barry Thoms, general manager at the Romulus Holiday Inn. "They grew up with them."

As always, the swimming pools, billiard tables, electronic games and other diversions at the Holiday Inn gives guests opportunities for relaxation and enjoyment.

Rooms during the special weekend are $49 per night.

Women Worth Watching

Sharon Scott
Westland resident
Wayne-Westland school board trustee

The barriers for women in politics are crumbling, according to Sharon Scott. A longtime resident of Westland, Scott has broken some of those barriers herself.

"My grandmother was very active politically," she said. "She was liberated before her time."

Politics were discussed around the dinner table on a regular basis, Scott said. This is how her interest in government grew.

Scott is an active member of the local Democratic party and has worked on many campaigns. She was the second woman initiated into the Westland Rotary Club.

Weight Loss Pill 'Baffles' Scientists

WASHINGTON — Scientists are baffled by a natural food ingredient that causes people to lose weight even though they don't change the way they normally eat.

A study published in The British Journal of Nutrition says that the ingredient, often used to thicken ice cream, can cause significant weight loss without dieting. Although several explanations for the weight loss are suggested, the most likely according to scientists in a Finnish study, is that the ingredient seems to decrease intestinal absorption of calories.

National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the research and development of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, along with consulting scientists, have successfully isolated and incorporated the ingredient into an improved method that greatly enhances the potential for weight loss over the ingredient alone. Called Food Source One, the significant break-through in nutritional weight control provides a three-way scientifically designed method to help prevent calorie absorption.

The mechanism by which Food Source One works to decrease body weight is a complicated process called nutri-bonding. When chewed and swallowed immediately before meals, high calorie fats are replaced with lower calorie nutrients, thereby providing optimum nutrition and a minimum number of fat calories as explained in an instruction sheet that accompanies the tablets. The instruction sheet should be followed for optimum results.

Food Source One is unlike any other product on the market and is available immediately because it is not a drug and only contains natural ingredients already known to be safe. Physicians and pharmacists are praising Food Source One as a natural, drug free alternative for the treatment of obesity.

Trees with thick branches are best for nesting. Pines, spruces and cedars fall under this category, Niergarth said.

"Birds come for both food and shelter," he said. "It's important, therefore, that you have a place where they can take cover from danger and a place for them to roost at night as well as food producing trees or flowers."

Covert agreed. He advised building small homes for animals to live in.

"Houses are more important than vegetation for attracting wildlife," Covert said. "Last year, we put out a wood-deck house and by morning a female screech owl had moved in. She's hatched a couple litters in the house by now."

Squirrels are enticed by nuts and young pine cones, according to Niergarth. Oaks and hickory trees are especially easy to plant and to grow, he said.

Rabbits are lured by garden plants. Opossum will eat almost anything. Chipmunks feed on nuts and seed, although Niergarth said most people do not want to attract them because they eat flower bulbs.

The wilder an area, the more desirable it is to most species, Niergarth said.

"Having trees and shrubs provides cover for animals and makes it easier for them to exist," he said. "Diversity also is helpful. The more species of plants you have, the more species of animals you'll attract."

Cost for these outdoor ventures can run anywhere from a few dollars to thousands of dollars, depending upon how much work people want to do themselves, Niergarth said.

In many cases, small plantable trees can be found at low costs at nurseries, he said.

Growing trees from seed also is an option, but it may take two to three years before they bear fruit. It takes even longer until they can give shelter.

Tree lovers in a hurry can transplant grown trees; however, the process can cost hundreds of dollars.

Residents with money to spend can purchase flowers or bulbs at nurseries, too. Yet Niergarth suggested that transplanting wildflowers grown at roadsides will do just as well to attract the desired wildlife into backyards.

HOW COME PEOPLE VISIT UNITED MEMORIAL GARDENS AND AVOID OTHER CEMETERIES?

"United Memorial Gardens is tomorrow's cemetery today. If I were to develop another cemetery, it would be like United Memorial Gardens, a showplace of unique gardens and features that interest many different people. School groups, church groups, travel groups and individual families visit the gardens for a learning experience".

Church sponsored youth groups enjoy hay-rides, campfires, hot dog roasts, picnics, bible studies, hymn sings, work projects and they especially enjoy the area called FACTS OF LIFE, with humor in stone on 76 granite markers. Because of the way we maintain our grounds, even with over 48,000 burials, people enjoy the peace and beauty of the gardens and spend a quiet time in prayer and reflection to bring a precious memory back to life.

A HASTY PURCHASE WITHOUT ANY KNOWLEDGE CAUSES MISTAKES. PEOPLE VISIT THE GRAVE LOCATION HUNDREDS OF TIMES OVER THE YEARS, SO DON'T WAIT TILL TEARS.

In 1991 we will be promoting "RUBBINGS" of the Wonders of Michigan, ANIMAL GATE OF HEAVEN and a fourth Mausoleum building, to complete phase #3 of our Chapel.

THE OLD TESTAMENT TABERNACLE IS VISITED BY THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE ANNUALLY BECAUSE IT IS THE ONLY FULL SCALE DUPLICATION IN THE UNITED STATES.

Pastors, Priests, Rabbis and Bible scholars are excited about the tabernacle tour booklets, only possible in a cemetery without cost.

Women love to shop, but not for burial property. Women, however, purchase burial property ALONE in 7 out of 10 deaths because they outlive their husbands.

"SOME EVENING WHEN YOU ARE OUT FOR A RELAXING DRIVE FOR YOGURT OR ICE CREAM, DRIVE THRU THE GARDENS, WE ARE NEVER CLOSED. IF YOU DO NOT OWN BURIAL PROPERTY, WE WILL MAIL YOU A VCR VIDEO WITHOUT COST."
